THE ROCKAWAY CEMETERY RECORDS.

In the interest of local history and genealogy of the old Morris County families these records have been arranged. It is a grave subject; the threads of romance were woven many years ago by the honored names now recalled to memory.

In the arrangement the names are given with the date of birth and death, alphabetically and also chronologically, with parentage and family connection as far as known to the writer.

All the monumental records have been carefully copied and compared with church records, family records, local newspaper files and other records, and corrected from the best information obtainable. The records of burials have been carefully recorded by the present sexton, Mr. John G. Mott, since July 1875, and the whole work carefully revised by him. The average date between death and burial has been three days, and the date of death has been given and corrected from the monumental and other records.

There are no records of the sextons previous to this date. Could these records have been arranged at the time of the "old sexton," Mr. David Gordon, who for over forty years faithfully filled that office, much could have been added. The church and monumental records have only partially filled this space.

Rockaway was settled as early as 1720, and became a place of considerable business in 1730 in the building of the Job Allen Iron Works. Tradition relates that this particular spot had been selected as a burial ground, God's acre, by the early families, but their names have not been recorded outside of the Allen and Jackson families. At a later period, 1740 and 50, we have a goodly number in the immediate vicinity, and those connected with the building of the Church, 1752, and later those connected with the church, 1758 to 1768, the number of names increased rapidly.

In the researches of the ancient burials, many are known to have been buried here, but the dates of births and deaths cannot now be obtained. Many of these old families having removed at an early date and all records have been taken with them. Traces of many of these old families have been found and much valuable information has been gained by correspondence. So many facts and traditions relating to the older families, their history and connection with old Rockaway have been learned, that the Cemetery records would not be complete without knowing more about these connections. These brief histories and genealogies may prove more entertaining than the Cemetery records, and are reserved for the last.

Special research has been made of those located here, who have served in the old French and Indian War, the Revolution, and the 1812 War, and those connected with the militia at a later date. These have been most difficult to obtain, as the State records have never been completed in this line. The boys who wore the blue in 1861-5, comrades must not be forgotten, nearly 150 of these ancient and modern worthies have answered the final roll call, and are now resting in peace from their patriotic and warrior services in this cemetery.

Cemetery statistics show some strange results. The Morristown Bill of Mortality from 1770 to 1775 records about 200 burials there in five years. One hundred of these were children below 15 years of age; 15 of the whole number died of old age. The hardships and privations of this period, the want of proper food, clothing and medical attendance had much to do with this, but the later date records do not show any improvement in the mortality among those of early age.

In the records where the age is given from 1875 to 1899, twenty-four years, of those buried in the Rockaway Cemetery 496 died between the age of birth and 5 years, more than one-half of this number did not attain the age of 1 year. 74 died between the age of 5 and 10 years; 84 between 10 and 20; 72 between 20 and 30; 79 between 30 and 40; 68 between 40 and 50; 89 between 50 and 60; 101 between 60 and 70; 105 between 70 and 80; 91 between 80 and 90; 9 between 90 and 100. About one-half died before the age of 15 years, and the larger percentage between 60 and 80. During the 10 years between 1875 to 1885, this percentage was very much larger than during the later period, with a very low percentage between the ages of 20 and 40.

Rockaway and its vicinity as the statistics show can be noted for its aged people. Dr. Tuttle writes, "that 15 years (1847 to 1862) in that congregation the record showed I had assisted at the funerals of 65 persons over 70 years of age. Of these 19 were between 80 and 90; 10 between 90 and 94; and one was said to be 115 years." From Dr. Barnabas King's fortieth anniversary sermon, preached Dec. 31, 1848, we learn that he had officiated at 681 funerals, very many aged people. He had preached 12,000 times, solomnized 417 marriages, baptized 547 children, and received in the church 680 members. What a record!

The oldest Monumental record is of brown stone, being well preserved, better than many others of later date, it is situated in the valley near the central part of the old burial ground, about 100 yards back of where the old church was located on a knoll in therear of the present church. It has this inscription:

Here lies the body of Mary Wife
of David Estile.
Deceased April 8th
1762 aged 24
Years.

It would seem from the old records that the "grave ground" and "Meeting hous Lot" had been allowed to grow up as in 1796 an agreement was made for the "clearing the whole of the Meeting hous Lot, by cutting the stumps low and all the under brush and burn it all for the wood and oald rails." We have followed the original spelling.

The first records of a family plot was in 1807 Joseph Jackson was permitted to "enclose in a fence twenty-eight feet square in the grave ground at the Meeting house where his wife is buried, for a burying ground for his family, and such of his father's family as may choose to bury their dead there."

In transcribing the names from the monuments, "Our Willie" and "Little Maggie" have been rendered plain William and Margaret, also all suffixes and prefixes have been dispensed with in the records that we might have occasion to give more honorable mention. The records give only monumental, church and sexton records, while the genealogies will give the names, and dates when possible, of many others who are buried here, and in family connection in other immediate cemeteries, as we have the records of many of them.

In transcribing the many thousands of names and dates that will follow, it is not possible that they should all be correct. Should any of those connected, or who have friends buried here, find errors of name or date, or can give any information concerning these persons or families, we should be pleased to have any corrections or information, so that the records may be made historically correct.

The writings and collections of Dr. Joseph F. Tuttle, who more than any other has added to the history of Morris County, and more particularly old Rockaway, when he was for seventeen years associated with its people, are found in New Jersey Historical Society. To him it was a labor of love. His interests and faculty for transcribing the early traditions and facts concerning our Revolutionary fathers in this historic locality will always be appreciated by future generations.

He wrote me that the vote of thanks given at some of his historical lectures fully repaid him for the time and labor expended. It was then as now, much valuable information is being withheld in the way of historical documents and old records, with the idea that they are very valuable in the way of dollars and cents, while their real valuations are only of historical interest.

To my many correspondents in the several states who have aided me in this work, and written words of encouragement, and those who have kindly aided me from their own private records and libraries, and all others, who from a delicate sense of modesty will not permit the mention of their names in this undertaking, I return my sincere thanks. If my work has aided you in the general exchange of information, it has filled its mission.

Historical and Genealogical.

In the beginning of the end it has been advised to give some account of the old Rockaway church and its people. In doing this the sketch written by Dr. King, soon after the dedication of the present church, Sept. 6, 1832, has been reproduced, from a pamplet in my possession, the only one, perhaps, in existence among the people of to-day. It was printed by request of the session at that time, at Newark, by Uzal J. Tuttle & Co., 1833.

It also has lists of communicants at that time, which have been rearranged, giving date of membership and date of death when known. The list previous to 1808 from various sources, includes persons connected with the church enterprise with dates of membership and death when known. In both lists are many who may be buried at the Cemetery, date unknown, and a part removed to other settlements, place and time unknown.

Many other records of interest will find their place here, to preserve their historical interest. Through the kind permission of the Rev. Joseph F. Tuttle, of Crawfordsville, Ind., a number of sketches of old families have been reproduced. Without the aid of his researches, the history of Rockaway and its people would be incomplete.

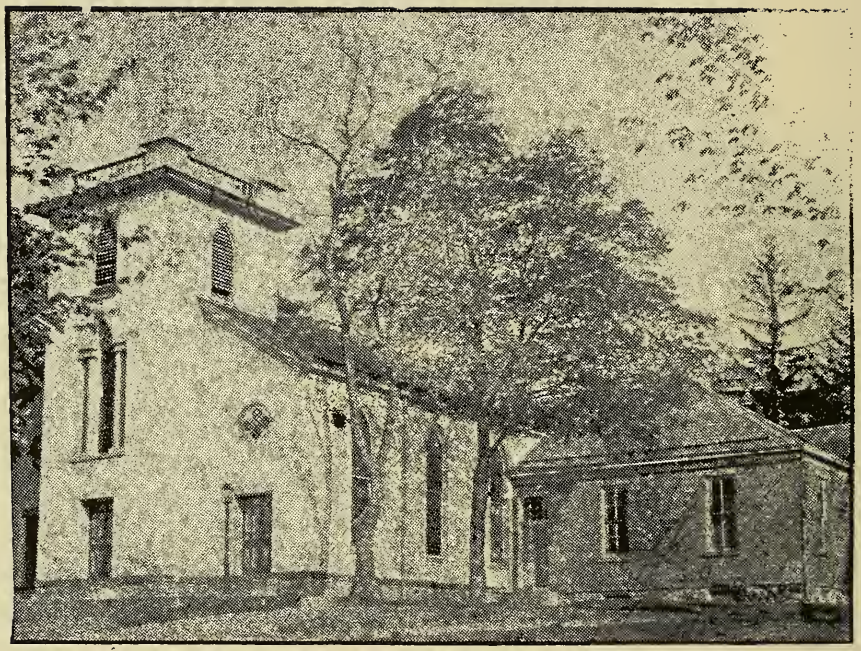
In the genealogies of old Morris County families, the lines have been drawn to those more or less connected with the early settlements of Rockaway, and its immediate vicinity, and whose relatives and connections are buried at the Cemetery. My information has been gained by an extended correspondence in many states from Maine to California, from Vermont to Florida, and reference on some disputed points have been referred to some of the noted genealogists of the day.

In some cases, family histories have been sent me, that have taken the authors many years of patient research, labor and expense to complete. In my arrangements the outlines have been brief and direct to our early settlers. and those wishing a more extended family history, with all the side lines, are refered to the works themselves. It has been an honor to be able to refer to these collections, and I do not wish any favorable mention when the work has been done by others.

In the closing of the series, we hope to be able to more fully complete our researches, relating to those who did service, in the "days that tried men's souls," and in our later wars who may be buried at the Cemetery, heroes of five, if not six wars. Also to complete the list at that later date, those who are being buried here, and, last but not least, to correct some of the errors that may have crept in, typographical and otherwise, to the best of our ability.

Respectfully yours

J. P. CRAYON.



ROCKAWAY, N. J., PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Dedicated Sept. 6, 1832.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF

The Church at Rockaway, N. J.

Much useful information is lost to the church and to the world for want of a record of the early settlement and progress of the churches. The many difficulties and prejudices of sectarianism in all new settlements, tend greatly to impede the progress of true piety, and much that might be gained by united effort and pious instead of party zeal, is lost by a desire to promote particular tenets instead of the religion of our Saviour, "which is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, easy to be entreated, full of mercies and good fruits," etc.

The Presbyterian church at Rockaway may be said to have been founded about the year 1766, although the first meeting-house (of wood) was raised in September, 1752. The building was the united effort of many denominations, and considerable sums were given by other congregations. The pious Colonel Jacob Ford, Sen., of Morristown, gave one hundred pounds. The house was enclosed and benches placed on the ground floor, and divine service held in it in that situation until 1768, when the pulpit and seats below stairs were built. In this situation the house remained until the year 1794, when it was ceiled and the galleries made and seated, as it remained until the new meeting-house was finished as it now is of brick, and dedicated on the sixth day of September, 1832.

The first written record of the parish, wherein they appear to be taking a name, and assuming a denomination, is dated December 23, 1766, when it was voted "to appoint a committee to sign an article of agreement to join with Parsippany in calling and settling a Presbyterian minister to preach, or settle, for both parishes jointly."

On the 2nd of March, 1767, the parish met to consider of and give Mr. James Tuttle a call as a candidate to preach at Rockaway and Parsippany, when it was voted to give Mr. Tuttle a call; and accordingly at a parish meeting on 11th of May, 1767, held for that purpose, a committee was appointed to sign the call for Mr. James Tuttle to settle with Rockaway and Parsippany, and Deacon David Beaman was appointed to go to presbytery, carry the call, and obtain an answer.

In April, 1768, the Rev. James Tuttle was ordained at Parsippany as minister for that congregation and Rockaway. This was the first settled and ordained minister in Rockaway. Mr. David Beaman was appointed chorister, and Mr. Jacob Allerton to read the psalm. It appears that sixty pounds was the sum named for the minister's salary; this for one half the time was equal to one hundred and sixty dollars a year.

In October, 1770, owing to the continued illness of Rev. Mr. Tuttle, the parish voted to sue for a dismission from the Rev. Mr. Tuttle when the presbytery should sit, and a petition was signed accordingly; but on the 9th of April, 1771, the decease of the Rev. Mr. Tuttle having taken place, the parish voted "to present a petition to the presbytery for them to send a candidate if they can, if not, to grant the parish liberty to hire a minister that shall be judged of good standing by some persons that they shall appoint."

In January, 1772, a contract was made with the Rev. Mr. Simson to preach for eighty-five pounds, light money, a year, and have the use of the parsonage. April 1, 1772, appointed Jacob Ford, Jun., a committee to carry the petition of the parish to the presbytery at Trenton, and voted, "to give Mr. Simson twenty-six shillings for every Sabbath he has, or shall preach for us, until the meeting of presbytery in New Brunswick." It appears Mr. Simson, having preached twelve Sabbaths at the meeting house, declined the call presented to presbytery for a settlement; and the congregation remained without a settled pastor, and renewed their application to the New York Presbytery for supplies; and on 20th April, 1773, it was voted at a parish meeting to send Mr. Isaac Sargeant to New England for a minister; but in May, 1773, the vote to send to New England for a minister was rescinded, and a request made to presbytery for supplies. A list of the names of the ministers who preached as supplies is given to preserve names of the then presbytery—viz.: Rev. Mr. Murdock, Rev. Thomas Lewis, Rev. Timothy Jones, Rev. Jacob Green, Rev. Mr. Clow, Rev. Mr. Burnet, Rev. Mr. Lyon and Rev. J. Grover.

In September, 1773, the congregation at Parsippany made a request to the congregation at Rockaway to join them again in obtaining a settled minister; but their offer was declined, and the parish voted to request presbytery to send them a candidate for settlement or supplies as before.

In May, 1774, the parish made out a call for the Rev. Matthias Burnet, which was presented to the presbytery, then sitting at Elizabethtown, in which they state the society consists of one hundred families who have raised, and offered him for his support, one hundred pounds (two hundred and sixty-six dollars) annually, with the parsonage with one hundred acres of land, with a house thereon in decent order, and to find him his firewood at the door.

The Rev. Mr. Burnet took six months to consider the call, and then declined accepting it. From this time until 17th March, 1775, the parish received supplies from presbytery, and part of the time hired the Rev. Joseph Grover as a candidate, who afterwards was settled at Parsippany; after which the parish voted to invite a Dutch minister from Hackensack for a short season; when Mr. Derondy, a minister of the Reformed Dutch church, supplied the pulpit for seventeen Sabbaths; after which, on the 12th April, 1779, the parish hired the Rev. Mr. Noble Everett as a canditate for six months, with a view to settlement, but which he afterwards declined.

During this period of the revolutionary war, for the most part of the time, the congregation was supplied by presbytery. No church records or session book having been kept, no records can be referred to, to state the increase of the church. There is occasionally mention made in the parish records of the number of baptisms of infants, but nothing in relation to the progress of religion. The names of particular individuals as officers in the church, occur in the records, but the number of the members or other matter relating to the church proper cannot now be known.

The Rev. Mr. John Joline (as appears by the records in April, 1779) had preached as a candidate for six months; but for reasons not stated, no settlement took place, and the Rev. Mr. Derondy was engaged again in November, 1779, and continued through the winter following until April, 1780.

In May, 1780, an effort was made to obtain a candidate from New England through Mr. Chapman, then minister at Orange. No record appears of the success of this application; but in August, 1780, the Rev. Lemuel Fordham was engaged for a short season, and then a Mr. Gilbert was engaged for several Sabbaths as a candidate for settlement, and in October, 1780, a petition was made to presbytery for the Rev. Mr. Fordham to be appointed as a probationer with a view to settlement.

In May, 1781, the parish voted to petition presbytery that Mr. Fordham be continued as a candidate for the space of six months ensuing; and it was further voted that the Rev. Mr. Fordham be permitted to preach the same sermons at Rockaway that he preaches at Succasunna, as he may think proper; from which it is infered that Mr. Fordham preached but half the time at Rockaway during these six months.

A great depreciation of the currency of the state having taken place, the parish agreed to pay fifty pounds in produce, to pay the salary, to wit: iron at twenty-four shillings per cwt., wheat at six shillings per bushel, rye and corn at four shillings, or in money as much as would purchase those articles.

From October, 1781, to April, 1784, the Rev. Mr. Fordham was a stated supply for one half the time at fifty pounds a year; and in April, 1784, the Rev. David Baldwin, who formally was a preacher at Black river in Morris County, accepted a call and was installed over the congregation, with a salary of eighty pounds a year, the use of the parsonage, and firewood found him at the door.

That part of divine service pertaining to the singing of psalms, and what version of the psalms should be used in worship, having made great uneasiness and great inquietude, in April, 1786, it was voted to appoint four choristers to set the tunes: "that Benjamin Jackson, Francis McCarty, and Jacob Lyon be appointed choristers, that they sing in the afternoon without reading the psalm line by line, and David Beaman to sing the fore part of the day, unless otherwise agreed on by Mr. Beaman and the other choristers; and that they sing any ' s that are sung in the neighboring ch. hes as they shall judge proper."

At a parish meeting held on 14th February, 1787, the Rev. Mr. Baldwin made a proposition to the parish, viz.: "the parish to give him one hundred pounds in cash, to assist in purchasing him a small settlement; and that he would relinquish twenty pounds a year of his salary, and thus have only sixty pounds a year with the use of the parsonage and firewood as usual."

This proposition of Mr. Baldwin's was agreed to, and at the same time the parish agreed to incorporate themselves agreeable to an Act of Assembly, passed March 16th, 1786.

On the 6th March, 1787, the parish met according to appointment and proceeded to elect their first Board of Trustees; when "William Winds, Stephen Jackson, Abram Kitchell, Benjamin Beach, Job Allen, David Beaman and David Baker were elected; who accepted the appointment, and do call themselves by the name of the First Presbyterian Congregation at Rockaway, in the County of Morris. A certificate of which under the hand and seal of the clerk of the County of Morris is dated 22nt. March, 1787.

April, 1789, some further difficulty having arisen respecting the singing in church, it was voted at a parish meeting to have the psalm read line by line, or by two lines, in singing in future, except on particular occasions.

On 17th June, 1780, at a parish meeting, Mr. William Ross, having served the parish as an elder of the church for several years, desired to resign his office as an elder of the church. The parish accepted of his resignation, with their thanks for his services.

This fact is mentioned to show that the method of electing officers of the church must have been by the parish and not by the church only. Mr. David Beaman, at the same time, resigned his office as elder and chorister for the parish, when a like vote of thanks was given.

In July, 1789, at a parish meeting, the Rev. Mr. Baldwin requested the parish to express their views on his appointment by presbytery to preach among vacant congregations, to which the parish unanimously assented. This is the first intimation of a missionary step, which in later times has been so successful in spreading the gospel, and no doubt has the promise of God with it to the end of the world.

January 4th, 1792, at a parish meeting, a proposition of the Rev. Mr. Baldwin was presented to the parish, expressing his willingness to be dismissed, or to be continued as the parish might think proper. Whereupon it was voted to pay up Mr. Baldwin's salary to the first of June, 1792, and after that time the parish.
ccnsider Mr. Baldwin under no further obligation to them, nor the parish to Mr. Baldwin; and that Mr. Baldwin have liberty to make engagements at his pleasure.

From what can be gathered from the records and the recollections of those now living, the church must have been in a low state. The attendance on the Sabbath did scarcely number thirty of all persons, and many times not more than half that number, but the hope of better times brightened upon the congregation. Some few were left who prayed, and perhaps in proportion, as many as Elijah were astonished to hear prayed. The Lord put it in the hearts of the people to bestir themselves, and to rebuild the tabernacle of the Lord Accordingly we find on the 14th May, 1792, at a parish meeting, the pious and devotedly good old minister, Mr. Baldwin, paid off to his satisfaction, with his prayers and benediction on the people that God had once placed him over; and thereupon it was voted to apply to Mr. John J. Carle to supply us as a candidate. Thirty-five for it, one against it.

The mode of singing was again adjusted by the appointment of Benjamin Jackson, Russel Davis and Daniel Hurd as choristers, and that they act discretionary when to sing without reading the lines.

On 18th June, 1792, it was voted unanimously (sixty-five present) to present a call to the next New York presbytery for Mr. John J. Carle for a settlement; which was accordingly presented and accepted; and in January, 1793, Mr. Carle was ordained and installed pastor over the church and congregation. This was the first ordination witnessed at Rockaway; the meeting house being then without gallery or walls; and having stood about forty years, and many efforts had been made to have a settled minister. After the death of the Rev. Mr. Tuttle, a new state of things occurred. A regular session of the church was formed and although no list of its members appears entire, yet a few were found ready to come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty; and the five years ministry of Mr. Carle added quite a goodly number to the church; but in the wise providence of God, we were again, in the spring of 1801, deprived of the stated ordinances of the gospel.

The Rev. Mr. Carle asked and obtained a dismission from the parish, and the parish became (as it truly was) like sheep without a shepherd. Part of the time with supplies from presbytery, and part of the time with preachers of other and sometimes strange doctrines, until in the mercy of God, we once more emerged from the dark cloud which hung over us; and in the fall of 1808, obtained a settlement of present pastor, Rev. Barnabas King, who was ordained and installed pastor of our church and congregation on the 27th December, 1808.

And under his administration the Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad, and for which we desire to bless his holy name. While we would show the great disparity of the numbers of the church in October, 1808, being then only thirty-five in all, and among them it might be said there was only three men that would pray in public, if they ever prayed at all; but under a faithful and pious ministry of twenty-five years, the Lord has increased the church to the present number of three hundred and thirty-one members in regular standing.

NOTE. The new meeting house at Rockaway is of brick, forty-seven by sixty feet, twenty-one feet high above the water table; steeple eighteen feet square, forty-two feet high, four pedestals, three feet square, with four pyramids ten feet high on each corner; four Gothic windows in each broadside and two in the pulpit end, each one hundred and eleven lights of glass; finished inside with galleries, ceiled, and seated in a plain, neat manner and painted white. About one year in building.

ROCKAWAY IN 1785.

BY J. P. CRAYON.

To preserve some of the records relating to Rockaway at this time, I have arranged from the original papers the facts as stated. It will correct some of the statements made in Morris County history related as historical facts. At this period regular assessments were made in the parish of Rockaway, for ministers salary, church and parsonage expenses. These assessments were made by authority of the session by Capt. Job Allen, both father and son had been so intimately connected and interested in the church.

It is presumed that this contains but a small average of the land owners of this section, or its people, as at this time, religion seemed to be at its lowest ebb, the isms of Voltaire and Paine, had been extensively circulated and imbibed by the soldiers of the Revolution, during hardships, that to live or die, made little difference, and like all other great armies, it is related that they swore, "like the army in Flanders," it became a habit not easily shaken off, and the financial system was on no solid basis, with heavy tax burdens, and the seven long years of neglect in the agricultural and mining districts had not been overcome, and the general unrest, and desire to occupy the better lands in the West, left the people very unsettled in their affairs, and but little interest in church affairs.

These assessments were rated according to the acerage of improved and unimproved lands, industries, the number of horses, cattle, etc., at a fixed valuation.

I have here given the names of owners with the number of acres of improved lands, assessed for church purposes, in the years 1784-5. Many subscribed, refusing to be assessed according to their valuation. This may be an important sketch for future historians, as it gives some idea of Rockaway and its vicinity in those days. It contains many names I have not met with in other records, and as many have placed their names in the original documents I have given the original spelling. The best written signatures are, if I am to be the judge, those of John Jacob Faesch and Bernard Smith, Abraham, and James Kitchel, David and Samuel Beaman, Benj. Beach, owned forges, Job Allen, Merchant, and David Baker, Tavern Keeper:

It will be noticed that among the names of the subscribers were those of the largest land and property owners, though very liberal contributors, they avoided assessment and taxation, a trait handed down to this day and generation. Among the papers of this date, or a little before, mention is made of one Thomas Milledge, a very large land and property owner in the parish, but went over to the British side in the Revolution, and became a major. On his return here, he was waited upon by a delegation of our citizens and advised to leave the country for his health, as they did not propose to associate with traitors in the community, he gave them no satisfaction at first, but finally fled for safety to Nova Scotia, and his lands and properties were confiscated. If our forefathers had fought the uses and abuses, of their prevailing weakness, the originator of crime, and destruction of health and property of that day and this, with the same determination and effect, that they fought Red Coats and traitors, the rum traffic of today would have been a thing of the past, and referred to in history as among the good old days of Adam and Eve.

Gen. Winds' Will.

In the name of God, Amen.

I, William Winds, of the township of Mendham, and the county of Morris, in the State of New Jersey, being very weak in body, and in a very declining state of health, though of perfect mind and memory, in a firm belief of the doctrines of Christ's holy religion, do ordain this to be my last will and testament.

In the first place, whenever it shall please the great Creator of the Universe to call me out of time, I bequeath my body to the dust, to be buried in a decent manner, according to the discretion of my executors hereafter named; and my soul to God who gave it, in a firm belief of a resurrection to eternal life.

I do likewise will and order that my funeral charges and all my just debts be paid out of my movable estate. Item.—I do hereby give and bequeath to my dear and well beloved wife, Ruhamah, the remainder of my estate, real and personal, to be at her disposal, and for her sole use and benefit, during the time of her remaining my widow, and if she shall see fit to marry, after my decease, I do still will and order that she shall have the use and benefit of the one-third part of my whole estate, that then remains, during her natural life, and that she shall, at no time, nor on any occasion, nor by any person whatsoever be obliged to give any account for any waste or damage done by her, or her order on said estate. Item.—I do further order after her decease, that what shall then remain shall be disposed of as follows:—To Abigail, Huldah and Susanna Beeman, the daughters of Josiah Beeman, I give fifteen pounds each. To Barnabas Winds and to his brother, Samuel Winds, I do give severally the one-twentieth part of my whole estate. To William Winds, Junr., son of Barnabas Winds, I give one-tenth part of my whole estate. To William Winds, son of Abigail Winds, I give also the one-tenth part of my whole estate, also to William Ross, son of William Ross, Esquire, I give the one-tenth part of my whole estate. To Mehctible Gouldsmith, daughter of Josiah Gouldsmith, I give the one-twentieth part of my whole estate. I do also give unto John Cory, whatever he may be indebted to me by note, book or bonds, and hereby order that all his obligations shall be null and void. Item.—For the great regard I have for the interest of Christ's kingdom, and for the benefit of the Presbyterian Church; I do hereby give and bequeath to the Presbyterian Church at Rockaway, all the remainder of my whole estate for a parsonage, and do hereby, further will and order, that the said remainder of my estate shall be and remain forever, for that use and purpose only; and that it shall never be disposed of for any other purpose whatsoever.

And I do appoint William Ross, Esqr., and Samuel Lindsly my executors, and my dear wife Ruhamah, executrix, to execute this my last will and testament, according to the true intent and meaning thereof,—

The DeMont Family.

In my collections made in the centennial year (1876) some account of the De Mouth family were given me by a member of that family, which I do not find in the Morris County history, which I will make mention here that the record may be preserved.

The De Mont, or De Mouth family were formerly residents of France, French Hugenots who fled from France on account of their Protestant faith and removed to Hanover in Germany, and from thence emigrated to America in June, 1709, and became the first settlers of Rockaway Valley, of this township. They were the first white settlers in the valley, and this family was in possession of old papers and deeds dating from 1709 to 1730, and an old relic, a razor hone of petrified wood, which came over with the family, and had traditionally been preserved in the family a long time during their residence in France. Several other relics were well preserved and of great antiquity.

The early family records had been lost, but history mentions Frederick, and Jacob a probable son. They were also among the earliest settlers at New Foundland in this (Rockaway) township. The mythical inscription "P. x S. 1773" on the triangular stone above the door of the old stone house now owned by Theodore Brown, may be interpreted that the building was erected by Peter Snyder in 1773. It was an addition to the original stone house built just forty years previous upon the lands owned by a member of the DeMouth family, who located there from Rockaway Valley about 1730, and inherited by the wife of Peter Snyder, who was a daughter of this early settler at New Foundland.

Mr. Thomas DeMouth, who gave me this information, lived and owned lands where the Clinton reservoir now is, these lands being occupied by his father, Thomas, a descendant of the original family in America. He was born Sept. 2, 1804, died July 2, 1881. Married Betsey Levi, of Litchfield, Ct. Her people were among the first settlers of

The Garrigus Family.

The Garrigus family were French Huguenots and settled at Philadelphia at an early date. Jacob, born 1716, one of a large family, came to Morris County and settled on what is now known as the Peck farm on the Littleton road, near Franklin. Sarah, his wife, was born 1720, died July 18, 1777. He died May 13, 1798. He and his son were early connected with the Rockaway church, and is said walked there, a distance of over five miles, with great regularity and through all kinds of weather. He and four sons served in Capt. Robert Gaston's Company, and Capt. Josiah Hall's Company from Denville. Two of his sons served at a very early age. All with the exception of David, who went West, were buried at Rockaway.

Children of Jacob and Sarah Garrigus: David, perhaps the oldest of the family, a Revolutionary soldier, married Abigail, daughter of John Losey, Mar. 18, 1773. It is related that when David was doing duty as guard, one Foster Williams, son of Samuel, of Shongom, had laid a wager with some of the Company, that he could take David's musket away from him while he was on his post. He came up and demanded his musket, but David well knowing the penalty resisted, when Williams undertook to deprive him of his musket by force, and was shot, so that he died a few hours after for his rash wager. Joseph Casterline belonged to the same Company. Jacob, Jr., it is said, lived at New Foundland after the Revolution, but I have no records of the name there. The Hoagland Family.

Through the kindness of Mr. Daniel H. Carpenter, the collector and compiler of a valuable historical and genealogical work "The Hoagland Family in America" I am largely indebted for this branch of the family who settled in Morris County, and connected with the interests of Rockaway, and related to many of the worthy families. I only regret that the brief space of these genealogies will not admit of so much valuable information relating to the early settlements. There are a few who can or will realize as they read this sketch, that it has taken years of patient research and at a very great expense to accomplish the end.

Christoffel Hooglandt was the first of this branch to emigrate to America. The name has a Dutch signification of Christ-bearer and high-land. The bearers of the name were numerous and greatly distinguished in war and art in Holland and Netherlands.

The Jackson Family.

The Jackson records have been obtained from various sources, and copies of wills in my possession, I have only to regret that I have not more data of the Jacksons of later date. Tradition has that Robert Jackson came from Watertown, Mass., to Whethersfield, Ct., from thence to Hartford, Ct., and from thence to Hempstead, in 1643, which perhaps was the first English settlement in the western part of Long Island. He had wife Agnes. His will dated May 5, 1683, mentions children John, Samuel, Sarah and Martha. He probably died in 1684.

John married Elizabeth Hallet (2) Elizabeth Laman, will dated Aug. 26, 1724, probably died in 1725. On Oct. 9, 1684, Lieu. John Jackson went to New York to obtain a patent for the town, Apr. 5, 1687, Capt. Jackson went to New York to obtain a grant for 200 acres of land. In 1698, Maj. The history of the Jackson family has been written in their early pioneer settlements, in the records of three wars, in the successful business enterprises, mostly in the iron industries of early years, in church, state, county and township, and as has been stated, the founders and builders of Rockaway. After four generations, and with the general depression of the iron industry, the name gradually passed away, and like many others early connected, the name may soon cease. Other and more profitable investments may have been found than in Rockaway.

REV. BARNABAS KING, D.D.
Born, New Marlsborough, Mass., June 2, 1780.
Died, Rockaway, N. J., April 10, 1862.

Rev. Barnabas King, D. D.

The following sketch written soon after the death and burial of Rev. Barnabas King by his colleague, Rev. Joseph F. Tuttle, very clearly illustrates the life, death and character of the worthy pastor. No greater or more worthy tribute, could have been written and as far as I know, has never before appeared in print. J. P. C.

Died on Thursday, April 10, 1862, at 10:30 A. M. at the residence of his colleague, the Rev. Barnabas King, D. D., in the 82nd year of his age. He preached for the first time in Rockaway, Jan. 26, 1806, began his stated labor here Oct., 1807, and was installed pastor Dec. 27, 1808, which relation continued until death dissolved it. On the day he was taken sick his resignation was offered to the congregation, which was not accepted; the Parish by a unanimous vote declined to receive it.

He was buried on the Lord's Day, April 13, a multitude being present, hundreds of whom could not get into the church. His colleague in compliance with his wish preached from the text, 1 Cor. 15, 10. "By the grace of God, I am what I am; and his grace which was bestowed upon me was not in vain; for I labored more abundantly than they all; yet not I but the grace of God which was with me."

The Rev. Barnabas King was born of pious parents in New Marlborough, Mass., June 2, 1780. From childhood he was noted for sobriety of manners and the diligent improvement of his limited privilege at school. In his fourteenth year he was about to be apprenticed to a cabinet-maker when Dr. Catlin, of Marlborough, in visiting the school which he was attending, became interested in his proficiency in study and offered to take him in his own family and fit him for college in four years in consideration of his services on the farm during the summer. This offer he accepted and after fulfilling his agreement, taught school for several years to obtain the means of going on with his education. At the age of eighteen he made a profession of faith in Christ.

In the spring of 1802, he attended the Sophomore Class of Williams College and was graduated in 1804. During the next year he taught school and studied Theology with Dr. Catlin. On the 15th of October 1805, he was licensed to preach by the Berkshire Association. Having failed to secure a settlement in his native county he was about to start for Western New York, then a new country, when a letter coming from a classmate led him to New Jersey.

From Jan. 7, 1806, to Oct., 1807, he preached at Sparta and Berkshire, when he became the stated supply of Sparta and Rockaway. Very soon a blessing attended his labors, and in the midst of a revival which resulted in the addition of eighty members to the church he was ordained and installed pastor of the church at Rockaway Dec. 27, 1808. Of the Presbytery of New York which performed this service Dr. John McDowell who preached the sermon alone survives. Then the Licenciate became pastor after a probation of three years, a trial which probably did much to prepare him for his future usefulness.

The region upon the care of which the young pastor thus happily entered was extensive and destitute, sparsely settled and cursed with ignorance, intemperance, Sabbath-breaking and kindred vices. The church was very feeble, consisting of only thirty-five members among whom were found but three men who ever prayed in public, and twelve were widows.

He commenced his labors in a sincere and prayerful spirit, giving himself wholly to his work, and seeking success by patient continuance in well doing. He became a practical missionary in the district of which his church was the center. He preached in school houses and private dwellings, and visited much from house to house. For continuous periods he arranged ten sermons a week. During the whole time of his ministry but one year passed without additions to the church. In the fall of the year of 1817, began a great revival which brought 151 into the church. Numerous revivals, some very extensive and powerful, rewarded his labor.

For forty years he continued his plain, unobtrusive but useful course, retaining the constant and growing affection of his people.

In 1847 when nearly 70, he received a colleague in his son-in-law, Rev. Joseph F. Tuttle. From his fortieth anniversary sermon preached Dec. 31, 1848, we learn that he preached 1,200 times, solemnized 417 marriages, baptized 547 children, attended —— funerals, received in the church 680 members, fourteen of whom became ministers. In the field of which he first had charge there are now five Presbyterian and five Methodist churches for all of which he in some measure prepared the way, and some of which sprang directly out of his church.

For the last fourteen years he had given up the active duties of the charge to his colleague, performing such services as occasion demanded, and his strength permitted, but always keeping up a lively interest and exerting a healthful influence in the affairs of the parish, and maintaining a happy co-operation with the junior pastor.

The evening of his life was calm and peaceful and amidst the kind attentions of those who knew and loved him, because they and their fathers had proved him, he gently passed away when the last summons came he welcomed it, and with his mind in perfect peace and clearness without a doubt or fear he departed to his rest while his whole people mourned for him as children for a father.

Father King was not according to common acceptation a great or learned, or brilliant man. His preaching never drew admiring crowds, but it instructed, interested and moulded generation after generation. His pulpit was occasionally occupied by such men as McDowell, and Richards, and Griffin, and Fraley, whose preaching was highly appreciated by the people, but it was common to hear the admiration of the stranger qualified by the remark, "but after all, I would rather hear our own pastor," showing that in the judgement of his people whatever superiority to him others might display in brilliancy was more than made up in him by some substantial excellence. His style of preaching was very simple, scriptural, earnest and affectionate. He was a good man, consistent in his life, "of good report of them who are without," satisfied will and faithful in his pastoral work, ever making it manifest to the flock that he sought not this but them. The success of his ministry is another proof that God uses unpretending but fitting instrumentality to accomplish great results. A remarkable characteristic of his preaching was its perfect orthodoxy and freedom from speculation so that he never had to take anything back.

This sketch would be incomplete without honorable mention of the conduct of the parish of Rockaway towards their venerable pastor. The very day he was stricken with his last sickness, his resignation was tendered in consequence of his colleague's acceptance to the Presidency of Wabash College, and his unwillingness to be in the way of settling a successor, he had done the same thing when his colleague was called. But the congregation with a noble spirit refused to accept his last resignation, as they had the first, giving as a reason their wish that he should die their pastor, and be buried among his people.

The Lamson Family.

Three brothers of this family landed at Plymouth in 1636, soon after the settlement of the Plymouth Colony. One of them, John, came to New Haven, who is the progenitor of the Lamson family of this section. He came to New Jersey in 1710, as the records of the New Jersey Proprietors at Perth Amboy show that the homestead farm near Dover was deeded by them in 1710.

John Lamson, or Lampson was an early settler at New Haven and probably died there. He married Elizabeth Morris, who, with their son Eleazer, came to Newark. He is mentioned in the Newark Town Records as a fence viewer Jan. 1, 1693.

Eleazer married Abigail, daughter of Capt. Samuel Swaine and wife Joanna. The Swaines came from London to Conneticut in 1635, came to Newark with the Branford Colony in May 1666. Had children: Elizabeth, born 1649; Joanna, born 1651, married Jasper Crane, Jr., died Sept. 16, 1720. Christiana, born 1659; Sarah, born 1669, and Abigail, who married Eleazer Lamson.

Eleazer and Abigail had children: Daniel, Thomas, who settled at Orange, was revolutionary soldier, and Eleazer, born 1720, died Mar. 24, 1789. He was at Rockaway, as a member of the Presbyterian church in 1779 and as a bridge inspector with Capt. Stephen Jackson and Col. Jacob Drake in 1781. His wife Jane was born 1723, died Jan. 26, 1796, both buried at Rockaway. Newark records have Moses as a son of the first Eleazer, but as the records show that he was born 1750, and died Dec. 22, 1798, buried at Rockaway, it is conclusive that he was son of Eleazer and Jane. Their other children were Daniel, who resided near the Quaker church, also Rhoda, who was born 1751, died at an advanced age and buried at Rockaway. Thomas, who was born 1755, died Jan. 27, 1838, buried at Rockaway. Benjamin, born Mar. 1, 1761, died 1824, buried at Rockaway.

Benjamin married Thankful Hathaway May 9, 1786, she was daughter of Jonathan and Lydia, and born May 15, 1787, died 1827, both buried at Rockaway. Benjamin was Elder of the Rockaway Church in 1809, and inherited the property south of Dover and lived and died there.

Children: Daniel, born Apr. 3, 1788, married Phebe Jackson July 3, 1816. She was daughter of John, the son of Benjamin Jackson. This name is not on the Jackson records however. Ira, born Mar. 29, 1792; Jonathan Hathaway, born June 2, 1799, married Lucy, daughter of Capt. Job and Sarah (Cooper) Talmage, of Franklin, Mar. 23, 1824. They removed to the Lake country in Western New York and probably died there. Albert G., born Aug. 7, 1803; sold his share of the property to his brother Daniel and went to Western New York. Benjamin probably had son Eleazer and daughters, but have no records of them.

Children of Daniel and Phebe (Jackson) Lamson, who remained on the old homestead: Jane, married Charles Thompson; Rhoda, married Hedden, of Center Grove; Chloe, never married, lived at Philadelphia; Eleazer, a school teacher, born Aug. 28, 1810, died Sept. 28, 1860, married Elizabeth A., daughter of Capt. John Seward, of Hurdtown. She was born June 10, 1812, died Mar. 14, 1893, both buried at Berkshire Valley. Charles, married Nancy Chrystal, of Dover.

Children of Charles and Nancy: Alfred, married Sophia Ann Cooper, daughter of David, of Franklin. Marcus, went to war in 1861; George went West; John C., married Esther Ayres, of Franklin present, resident of the old homestead. Martha, married Jacob Kontz, of Ninkey.

As will be seen by the church records, the latter part of the last century and the first part of this no stationed minister was at the Rockaway church, and if we consult the marriage records at Morristown we would find that at this period a large part of the marriage ceremonies were performed by the Justice of the Peace, generally spoken of as 'squire.

Esq. Benjamin Lamson held that office at this period, and his finances must have been largely increased by the swains, young and old, in all this region around about. Tradition relates of one unprofitable investment. A twice widower, a resident of Pigeon Hill, had contracted a matrimonial alliance with a young widow, a resident of the mountain region above Hibernia, which under peculiar circumstances did not materialize. The best laid plans of mice and men, etc.

The arrangement was that the widower's neighbors who had team and conveyance, was to go to the widow's and bring all her household goods and chattels, including a barrel of soft soap, an indispensible article in those days to every thrifty housewife, and appear at 'Squire Lamson's where the widower would meet her and they two would be made one, and then proceed at once to the home of the widower, where a wedding supper would be in waiting, prepared by the neighboring wives, and all, young and old had been invited for a grand jollification.

A messenger had been dispatched to 'Squire Lamson's to apprise him of the fact. The good natured 'squire immediately set his house in order; threw on an extra supply of wood in the open fire place, to give them a warm and comfortable reception, as the temperature out was below the freezing point.

At nine o'clock, the appointed hour, the parties arrived, the widower, like many others, could not stand prosperity, and his friends had induced him to imbibe too freely of the ardent spirits of that day, and on his arrival it took two of his friends to conduct him to the house. The widow, took in the situation at a glance, and would accept no apologies, but informed the would-be groom, that he was not the man who came up in the Hibernia mountains in search of a wife and made a contract, and that she would not marry him under any circumstances.

The wedding supper, which had been prepared with great care and skill under the supervision of the neighboring housewives, must not be allowed to spoil, and it would certainly not save over until the next event, so all went to the house of the widower and great was the jollification thereof.

Another and similar circumstance happened soon after, so that the guests, many of them, could boast that they had partaken of four marriage suppers, at the residence of their friend only twice married.

There might be a moral attached to to this bit of ancient history, that would benefit the present day and generation, but I shall not interfere with the morals, the manners or customs of that day or this.

The Miller Family.

Among the early settlers in Morris County were three brothers named Miller, who came from Holland perhaps as early as 1740 or 50, as each had sons old enough to serve in the Revolution.

Frederick Miller settled at Stony Brook, near Rockaway Valley, where his son Frederick bought lands, over 400 acres, in May 1788, and it is said that some of the descendants still own parts of the original tract. He became a member of the Rockaway church in 1770 and is probably buried here.

There are those now living who remember of coming to Rockaway church in Dr. King's time from Rockaway Valley and Stony Brook in ox wagons in summer and "jumper" sleds in winter, the only conveyances and propelling power used by the early settlers about their "clearings" and "patches," now called farms. A slow and sure progressive movement, but the best the early settlers had, and they accommodated whole families and sometimes neighborhoods, and usually those who had farthest to go to church, succeeded in getting there first.

Jacob Miller settled at Hook Mountain, near Pine Brook: bought a large tract of land, on which some of his descendants now live and own in part. His sons served in the Revolution.

Christian or Christopher, there is some uncertainty as to which name, settled on 600 acres of land near old Boonton. His son, John Frederick, it is related was one of Washington's Staff officers or express riders, while encamped at Morristown. While the enemy were at or near Trenton it was necessary to communicate or get dispatches to Philadelphia. Washington selected John Frederick Miller and the brown mare to carry these dispatches. The ride was a perilous one, and through the enemy's lines, but the brown mare and her daring rider performed the distance and returned bringing important information in just thirty-six hours.

The distance probably traveled at that time, and on this occasion was nearly 180 miles, or an average, without including rest or time for feeding, of nearly five miles per hour. The power of endurance of both horse and rider over the rough roads of Revolutionary days would compare favorably with the improved horse flesh of to-day, covering the more direct lines and improved roads.

The daring rides of General Putnam, Paul Revere and General Sheridan have passed into history and poetry, but the feats of the brown mare and its daring rider, John Frederick Miller has only been handed down in the plain prose of family tradition.

John Frederick Miller lived and died at Old Boonton, his place of burial is unknown. He had thirteen children. Frederick; Alexander, married Phebe ——— and died at Old Boonton. Ada married(2)Pierson, and lived and died at old Shongum. Thomas died at Orange. Jemima; David died at Pine Brook; Sarah married Tuttle, died at Brooklin. Stephen, born Dec. 11, 1791, married a VanDine. Her mother was a Doremus, a lineal descendant of Aneka Jans. He served six months in the 1812 war, and did service at Jersey City and Sandy Hook with the Rockaway boys under the Jacksons. He died at Paterson, March 2, 1888. Lydia and Nellie died at Old Boonton. Ann married Tuttle, who married Sarah and died at Brooklin. Obadiah died at Newark. Aaron died at Old Boonton. His son Edward now owns a part of the old Miller homestead.

The facts of the Miller family were related to me by one of the descendants, who has taken no special pride in tracing ancestry or the interesting part of history connected with the family, in less than half an hour. To trace to the sixth and seventh generations of the three original brothers, all having large families would occupy many years of time and research, as they are related to very many of the old Rockaway and Morris County families.

The Palmer Family.

The Pammer, Parmer and Palmer families were well distributed among the early settlers of Long Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts. As there are Palmer Genealogies locating the older families, I will only mention one Jacob Palmer, who came from Long Island and settled in Morris County at or near Franklin about 1760, and being by trade a forgeman, probably worked in the first forge at Franklin. He was married to Phebe Lyon, of Morristown, Nov. 30, 1768, by Rev. Timothy Johnes. Both are probably buried at the Rockaway Cemetery. Dates unknown.

Children: Samuel, born at Franklin Nov. 30, 1769, married Neomi, daughter of Timothy Southard, Mar., 1791. She was born Oct. 2, 1772, died May 29, 1851. He died Sept. 28, 1845, both buried at Rockaway. Ezekiel [Date of births of other children unknown] married Sally Hall, daughter of John, of Saybrook, Ct., lived where John Miller now lives on the Dover road to Morristown. He died 1844. She died about 1850, buried at Rockaway. They had fourteen children; Aaron, married and went to the Lake Country in New York State. John, married Harriman and went to Vermont. Lewis went to Vermont. Phebe married Joseph Losey. Rebecca married Feb. 7, 1813, Alexander, son of Deacon John Hill. He was born Feb. 11, 1787, died Mar. 13, 1860. Both buried at Rockaway.

Children of Samuel and Neomi (Southard) Palmer: Timothy, born Dec. 8, 1791, married Electa, daughter of John Garrigus, Mar. 30, 1814. She was born May 9, 1794. He worked in the Franklin Forge and lived nearby in the house torn but a few years. He died there Oct. 8, 1833. Both are buried at Rockaway. Jacob, born Jan. 11, 1793, lived at Franklin, forgeman, married Sarah, daughter of Aaron Bonnell, of Mt. Freedom, Sept. 24, 1818. He died Sept. 3, 1842. Both buried at Rockaway. Susanna, born Feb. 9, 1797, married Archibald Broadwell, of Vermont. He was born 1795. Was in the 1812 war.

Died May 25, 1837. Was shoemaker and lived at Denville. She died Frb. 23, 1884. Both buried at Rockaway. Mary Ann, born Aug. 4, 1799, married Silas Halsey Sept. 27, 1819. Went to Pennsylvania. She died Sept. 18, 1876. Silas Southard, born Apr. 11, 1804, married Mary King, daughter of Jeremiah Baker, June 26, 1834. She was born Aug. 24, 1811, died Feb. 11, 1888. He died Sept. 22, 1876. Built the house now owned by J. P. Crayon, in 1834, lived and died there. Both buried at Rockaway. Amy, born Nov. 10, 1806, died Dec. 10, 1806, buried at Rockaway. Rebecca, born Oct. 30, 1808, married Seelee S. Tompkins Dec. 21, 1826, lived at Franklin. She died Dec. 20, 1871. He was born Oct. 15, 1802. Died Jan. 1, 1868. Both buried at Rockaway. Anna Eliza, born July 1, 1810, never married, lived at Franklin, died Jan. 1, 1875, buried at Rockaway.

Children of Ezekiel and Sally (Hall) Palmer, as far as I have found any record: Daniel, born about 1801, was a soldier and died in the Civil War about 1861. Elias, born Oct. 21, 1808, married (1) Nancy Lyon, who was born Oct. 21, 1823, Jane died March 19, 1860, married (2) Compton, lived at Franklin, died Dec. 9, 1885, buried at Rockaway. Connett; Sibbah, born 1823, married Halsey Howell, of Rockaway, May, 1846, died Oct. 5, 1893. Both buried at Rockaway. Hannah, married John Ayres. Should like to have the records of all this family.

John, married and went to New York. Silas Halsey, born 1819, married Jane Shadrick. She married (2) John P. Hill, son of Alexander. He died Jan. 10, 1884, buried at Rockaway. Timothy, married Mary W., daughter of Stephen Dickerson, lived at Succasunna. William Mitchell, married Sarah Dowerty, of Plainfield. Jacob, married at Bridgeport, Ct., had three children, died in Morris County about 1895. James, went to Connecticut.

The Robarts Family.

The Robarts or Roberts families came from Long Island and were early settlers in Morris county at Rockaway, Mt. Freedom, Morristown and Bernardsville. A number did service in the Revolution. The old Robarts homestead at Rockaway is now occupied by Elias B. Mott. Abby of this family lived to be nearly one hundred years old, and died at Mt. Freedom. Eliza, married a Poole, had one child named Dreusa. Chillion, who lived on the old homestead, married Phebe Russell, they had children: Mahlon, who married Mary Ann Morris, she married (2) David L. Ross, of Newark. Libeous, never married, died at Mt. Freedom. Elizabeth, married William Mott, of Rockaway, May 10, 1835. He was born Dec., 1810, died June 15, 1890; buried at Rockaway.

This Mott family came to Millbrook, or as then called Mott Hollow, about 1800. Joshua Mott born June 8, 1751, married Mary Kitchen, who was born Oct. 29, 1755. He died in 1837, she in 1834, buried at Quaker Church Cemetery. Elizabeth M., born Jan. 6, 1845, married Job T. Hill, of Franklin, Oct. 24, 1868, died Feb. 11, 1886, buried at Hill Cemetery. For children see Hill Family.

The Southard Family.

In the earliest days of Hibernia, probably as early as 1740, not later than 1745, lived one Timothy Southard. He was unfortunate in the death of his wife, who, it is probable was buried at Rockaway. They had one son, an infant at the death of its mother, and also named Timothy. The father sold out his household belongings, not very extensive in those days, and carried the infant in his arms, and was going to make the journey on foot to some of his relatives living at Elizabethtown Point, or to Long Island, where he came from. He stopped for the night at an acquaintance by the name of Hedden, then living on the back road between Rockaway and Hibernia, the only road then traveled, at that time perhaps a bridle path, and the family induced him to leave the infant in their care until he should return in two or three weeks, which arrangement had been satisfactorily made, and Timothy proceeded on his journey, saying, that when he returned the family would be amply repaid for their kindness and trouble, and other arrangements for the keeping of the child satisfactorily made.

He was never heard from again, and it was thought that he had died grief stricken before he had reached his relatives, as they had never received any tidings from their relative, and a case of misplaced confidence, or intended disappering was unusual, as the ties of affection were stronger in those days than in this present day and generation.

Young Timothy grew up with the Hedden family, and became as one of their large family of children, the hospitality of the early settlers had no boundary however scanty of provisions or clothing or close quarters the house provided, there was always room and a welcome for one more. Timothy grew up in these surroundings, married in early life, became a prominent member in the circle of society in those days, was a soldier in the Revolution, returned and died from the effects of his service for his country, a few years after near the place where he was "brought up," and was probably buried at Rockaway, though we have no written records to prove the same, we accept it traditionally.

He had quite a large family of children, who became connected with many of the good people of that time and generation. Nancy, was born 1768, married David Gordon, a Revolutionary soldier, soon after the Revolution. He was son of William, a captain in the army, who was the son of Joshua, a quartermaster in the army. Son, father and grandfather all doing service at one time. David Gordon, served many years, it is said forty, as the "old sexton" of Rockaway. Dr. Tuttle's tribute to the "old sexton," brings out the character and duties and life of early days of service. He was born, Sept. 23, 1759, and died July 23, 1852. His wife died Feb. 1851, both buried at Rockaway.

Neomi, born Oct. 2, 1772, married Samuel Palmer, of Franklin, Mar., 1791, and died May 20, 1851. Samuel Palmer was son of Jacob, who came from Long Island and married Phebe Lyon and settled at Franklin. Samuel was born at Franklin Nov. 20, 1769, and died there Sept. 28, 1845. Both buried at Rockaway.

Timothy, the third named Timothy, became a prominent citizen of Morris County, and distinguished himself as school teacher, justice of peace and lawyer and died near Lake Hopatcong, date not known.

Isaac and Benjamin are on the Rockaway church records as members at an early date, but whether of this family, I am not certain, it is quite certain there were a number of daughters, whose names and records have been handed down to this generation. Who can tell?

Tradition has it that this family of Southards who came from Long Island, were related and connected with the family of Abraham Southard, who came from Long Island and settled at Basking Ridge in 1755. His son, Henry born Oct., 1747, was a revolutionary soldier, and afterwards congressman, died June 2, 1842. Samuel L., son of Henry, born at Basking Ridge June 9, 1787, also distinguished himself as senator, secretary of navy, and also many high offices of this State, where he was known as "New Jersey's favorite son," he died at Fredericksburg, Va., June 26, 1842.

The Talmage Family.

The researches made by genealogists during the last five years have made many changes in the old families of the early settlements, and it may be predicted that the next five years will make still greater changes. Traditions will be a thing of the past, as no stone will be left unturned, and the coming years will develope many things good, bad and indifferent, that may have belonged to our ancestors, and a search for possible traits of character, handed down to the present generation will find their way to all the general law courts, as a remedy for all the ills the flesh is heir to.

In the finding of an old will in England, dated 1638, made by John Talmage, mention is made of the children of his son Thomas, who came to America, authorities say to Boston, in 1630. William, probably died unmarried. Robert, settled at a later date at New Haven Thomas, settled at South Hampton, L. I. Jane, married Robert Walker, of Boston. The son of Thomas (2), also named Thomas, settled at East Hampton, where his father sojourned in his old age and died there. Benjamin, settled at Brookfield, L. I., and his sons came to New York. There were sons of Thomas the younger: Enos, and Daniel, who came to Elizabeth in 1719, and died there 1725.

This Daniel born 1693 of the fifth generation seems to be progenitor of the Talmage family in New Jersey. He had children: Daniel, Thomas and Hannah, who married John Ross, of Elizabeth. Thomas was born Mar. 1722, married Hannah Norris 1745, had children: Daniel, born 1746, married Loisa, daughter of Capt. Job Allen (1), of Rockaway, Dec. 21, 1766, by the Rev. Timothy Johnes, of Morristown. He was at Basking Ridge at this time, and it is said also lived on the present David Lash farm, near Rockaway, and from thence removed to Sussex County and enlisted as a private in the second Sussex Regiment, under Col. Benj. Tustin, Major Samuel Meeker and Capt. Joseph Harker. Eighty in all were ambushed by the Indians under Joseph Brandt, at Lackawaxen, Pa. Forty-four were killed, of these twelve were Sussex men, among them was Daniel Talmage, July 22, 1779. Forty-three years after the massacre they were buried at Goshen, N. Y., and a monument erected with their names inscribed. Col. John Hathorn, then eighty years of age, laid the foundation stone July 22, 1822. John and Enos died in youth. Thomas, born Mar. 1722, married second wife Elizabeth Wicks, had eight children. Six daughters, names unknown. Thomas and Noah. Married third wife.

Thomas, was born 1752, married Mary McCoy 1772. She was born 1758. He died Nov. 16, 1832, had 13 children. She died at Somerville Nov. 3, 1834. The following are children as far as known: Goyn, died 1812; Daniel, David G., born Apr. 21, 1773, married Catharine VanNest Dec. 19, 1803, died Oct. 27, 1865. She was born Mar. 27, 1787, died Oct. 27. 1862. Jehial, born 1784, died at Bloomfield, N. J., Sept. 27, 1854. Thomas, John, and some records Samuel.

Noah Talmage of the state troops located where Ogdensburg now is, then known as Sodom, soon after the Revolution, was carpenter, and helped to build the Sparta Presbyterian church, which was several years in building. It was organized 1786. His wife Elizabeth, died at Sparta, May 10, 1855, aged 83 years.

The VanDervoort Family.

A California correspondent wrote me that one Peter VanDervoort, a Revolutionary soldier, was buried at the Rockaway Cemetery, and gave the location as near as he could remember, but that there was no monumental record of the same. On further inquiry I found that tradition had associated him as a "Skinner." and of the same company of Paulding, VanWart and Williams, the captors of Major Andre as every school boy can tell, and would have been on patrol, had it been his night out. All these traditions might have been woven in a very pretty story, and, possibly no contradictions, as Peter had been dead over seventy years, and the incidents transacted about 120 years.

Now if Peter was a Revolutionary soldier, he could not have been a "Skinner," the lawless Americans who patroled the neutral grounds of Rockland and Westchester counties and along the Hudson river, more for plunder than patriotism, as the "cowboys" did on the British side. For more particulars of "cow boys" and "skinners," see Irving's Life of Washington.

Perhaps his name might have been among the fifty thousand furnished by the State of New York in the Revolution, but it was not there. Perhaps Paulding, VanWart and Williams were "skinners" but not so, they were regularly enlisted men on duty of patrol. These questions placed me in communication with Mr. J. C. L. Hamilton, a descendant of Alexander Hamilton, an able historian from Westchester county, and one familiar by research of these famous neutral grounds, and a special inquiry from Adjt. Gen. W. S. Stryker, of Trenton. Perhaps the school boy may know more of the captors of Maj. Andre, if I may quote here from Hamilton in his "Poverty and Patriotism on the Neutral Grounds" and why history mentions only three of the seven captors of Andre.

"The capture of Major John Andre gave these Neutral Grounds the proud distinction of producing the first medal of honor presented to soldiers of the republic. Three alone of the seven, which composed this small band of patriots, were awarded a medal inscribed "Fidelity." John Paulding, Isaac VanWart, David Williams, Isaac See, James Romer, John Yerks, John Dean, Sergeant.

"These captors, in accordance with an agreement, sold the watch, horse, saddle and bridle taken from Major Andre and made equal division of the proceeds between the seven, after which they all contributed an equal amount toward defraying the expenses of one of their number to Philadelphia in order to lay the importance of the service rendered before Congress, with the expectation that all of them would be suitably rewarded. The member entrusted with this mission, after arrival in Philadelphia, came in contact with a member of Congress from the State of New Jersey, said to be not very friendly to the cause of independence, who, learning the particulars of the capture, advised that no mention of the four additional members should be made, for fear that Congress would refuse to grant any reward."

Adjt. Gen. Stryker finds Peter C. VanDervoort a private and minute man in the Bergen county, N. J. Militia, also the names of Garrett and Cornelius VanDervoort. Now Garrett and Cornelius were brothers of Peter P. VanDervoort, as the Bible records give the name. The Bergen county militia operated more or less upon the Neutral Grounds of the Hudson, the home of the VanDervoorts.

Garrett, it is related, was sent home on sick furlough with many from his company, from the fact, as was afterward ascertained, of having eaten too much bread made from the flour purchased on these Neutral Grounds that contained a large percentage of stone that had been ground and mixed in the flour making it indigestible. It was a very mean trick and drew the line on which side of the Neutral fence the miller belonged.

Cornelius VanDervoort, soon after the Revolution came to Rockaway; was a carpenter by trade, and worked seventy-seven days in the rebuilding of the old Presbyterian Church at Rockaway, under Contractor Job Allen in 1794. He must have been a very sober and industrious man, and a good workman, as Job Allen only worked eighty-three and one-half days, while a score or more employed worked a far less number and one but half a day. One of the daughters of Cornelius married and lived at Rockaway. I have no further records of Garrett or Cornelius. There was a Garrett and Cornelius who lived near Warwick, N. Y., but upon inquiry no relationship was claimed to our Peter P. Mention is made of one Michael a probable brother, who married Martha Leaman, and had children: Paul, Michael, John, Jonas, Peter, Elizabeth, Martha and Hannah. I will leave this branch for the work of some future historian to unravel. Further researches find the old stone house, now standing near the Ponoma station, as the home of the VanDervoorts.

Peter P. VanDervoort, Holland Dutch descent, as the name implies, and old traditions relate, was born in Rockland county, New York, Nov. 25, 1753, and married Phebe, daughter of William Coe, about 1773. She was born Sept. 13, 1755, and a part of the children were born in Rockland county. Soon after the Revolution the family located on the "Billy Scott" farm about a mile above Hibernia, and from thence removed to the Coperas Mine near Green Pond, at which place he died about 1830, and was buried at Rockaway. It is related that his wife died soon after while on a visit to her daughter Nelly's at Edenville, N. Y., and was buried at Warwick, N. Y., but no trace or monumental record confirms it, as she would have been buried in the Dusenberrie plot where her daughter and some of the children are buried.

Children: William, born May 26, 1774, married and went to Berne, Albany county, N. Y., May 23, 1793, and from thence removed to Louisiana, and was never heard from. There are numerous descendants at St. Louis, Mo.

Ellenor, or Nelly, born Nov. 22, 1776, married Daniel C. Dusenberrie, lived at Edenville, Orange county, N. Y., died Mar. 11, 1835, and buried at Warwick, N. Y.

Peter, born May 22, 1779, married a Vreeland and lived at Macoupin, Passaic county, N. J. He had a daughter who also married a Vreeland, and a son William, who married a Jacobus and removed to Akron, Ohio, and from thence to Prarie du Sac, Wis.

Garrett, born Aug. 25, 1781, married Magdaline Losey Jan. 5, 1802, was in the 1812 war, and killed at the burning of Toronto, Canada, by the Americans in 1813.

Hannah, born May 27, 1784, married George Linkletter, perhaps the only one of that name in the United States, lived at Edenville, N. Y. Had children: John, who married and removed to Woodland Centre, Berry County, Mich; James, married Jane Halstead, and went to Painted Post, Chemung County, N. Y. Charles, Caroline, Sarah, Mary Alice and Phebe. Charles and Sarah are still living at an advanced age.

Elizabeth, born April 10, 1791, married Edmund Raymond and went to Niagara County, N. Y.

Phebe, born Dec. 16, 1793, married Beaman, son of George Stickle, of Rockaway, Mar. 28, 1818, removed to Cottage Grove, Wis. He was born Apr. 10, 1794, died July 5, 1884.

Samuel, born Jan. 1, 1797, married a Duryea, who died 1842 and was buried at Rockaway near the grave of Peter P. VanDervoort.

Daniel C. Dusenberrie, of Edenville, N. Y., was a soldier in 1812 war, a private in Capt. Austen's Company and did service at Long Island. He married (2) Phebe Mills, June 27, 1838. She was a daughter of John and Cleo (Wines) Mills, who at one time owned the farm and mills at Ninkey where J. Andrew Casterline resides. He was so well pleased with his first wife who came from Morris County that it was quite natural that he should get his second wife from Morris County. All buried at Warwick Cemetery, N. Y.

Daniel Wrisberg.

Daniel Wrisberg is mentioned in the lease with John Jacob Faesch as one of the parties of the second part for Mount Hope, dated Feb. 23, 1873, Col. Jacob Ford being the party of the first part. Wrisberg probably came with Faesch from Germany, and was a man with considerable means and invested with Faesch in the iron business. As his name is not mentioned in any connection after this date he probably died soon after and tradition relates that he left £100 to the Rockaway church with a provision that he was to be buried under the pulpit of the church. As there are no church records of this date, it is more than probable that the provisions were complied with, and we would place the date of death and burial 1773. If there are any historical facts, other than tradition, relating to the same we should be pleased to know of them.

Dr. Daniel Steuart Ayres.

To those who remember the "good doctor Ayres" and his kindly aids to the poor, and more particularly to those who have always spoken a good word in all his life trials and afflictions, seen and unseen, this sketch is dedicated.

Obadiah Ayres came from Aberdeen, Scotland. and settled at or near Hackettstown, N. J., about 1720. He had a son Ezekiel, who was born 1729, died Aug. 5, 1796. Ezekiel married Annethe ——— who was born 1731 and died Nov. 27, 1778. Both buried at Hackettstown. Ezekiel and Annethe had son Ezekiel born Jan. 16, 1755, married Lena Eich, died Aug 21, 1835. Ezekiel and Lena had children: Robert, born Nov. 8, 1788, died Mar. 13, 1864. He married Catharine Oliver who was born June 10, 1790, died Dec. 16, 1847. William, Abrahan, John, Ezekiel, Mary and Sarah.

Robert and Catharine had children: Ezekiel, Daniel S., born Feb. 16, 1812, married Jan. 21, 1836, Penina Vliet, daughter of Jacob, who was born Jan. 14, 1814, died May 12, 1873. Robert, born Feb. 25, 1814, married Malinda Cummins and had twelve children. Archibald, James and Catharine.

Daniel S. and Penina came to Rockaway in the '60s—children: John V., born Dec. 14, 1836; Elizabeth V., born Mar. 12, 1838, married Henry Aten; Robert, born Feb. 13, 1840, married Mary R. Hance, daughter of James M., Aug. 29, 1863; Catharine E., born Feb. 13, 1842, married Samuel E. Stevens; Lucy A., born Jan. 1, 1843, married Isaac L. Howell. Daniel Stuart, born June 7, 1845, died Dec. 2, 1887, married Sarah S. Fuller, daughter of James. She was born May 24, 1847, died Apr. 27, 1872. Both buried at Rockaway. Penina, born Mar. 23, 1847, married Wm. A. Harris; Charity A., born May 17, 1849, married A. C. Wintermute, died Mar. 12, 1872; Anna M. born May 9, 1851, died Aug. 16, 1851; Wm. E., born Sept. 23, 1852, died Jan. 22, 1862; Austin S., born Apr. 2, 1854, died Oct. 27, 1873; Katurah, born Aug. 15, 1855, died Aug. 26, 1855.

I do not find any traces of relationship of this Ayres family with the Ayres family who came from Woodbridge, N. J., though many of the names are similar. Ezekiel brother of Obadiah settled at Basking Ridge, N. J., and William near Belvidere.

The Bruen Family.

Obadiah, son of John Bruen, came from Stapleford, England, with his wife Sarah, in 1640, and had children: Hannah, born 1643, married John Baldwin, Sr.; John, born 1646, married Esther Lawrence, Rebecca, married Thomas Post. Obadiah removed to Newark with the Milford Colony in 1667. The descendants of John and Esther were numerous, and many, like most other Newark families, came to Morris county. The Bruens came to Chatham and Madison.

Joseph Bruen married Rachel Carter. He died 1820. Who was John Bruen who died at Rockaway, Apr. 1820?

The Cole Family.

Tradition says that Leonard Cole and family came from Amsterdam, Holland, and first settled near Milton, in Morris County, about 1740 or '50, when his son Henry was only four years old. He married a second wife here by the name of Almeda Hartrum, or McCloud, name uncertain, and had sons: Abraham, Peter, Leonard, Jacob, and daughters: Phebe and Elizabeth. I have heard it related of this family, as well as some other Dutch families, that the children were never named only such names as could be shortened or nicknamed, and thus we have, Brom, Pete, Lent, Jake, Febe and Bets, an advantage, certainly, where life did not reach the full three score and ten years.

A sister of the original Leonard married Israel Holly, one of the first settlers of old Stockholm. There is a tradition that their first child, a daughter, was taken when very young by the Indians, who at that time frequently passed through that section on their way to the Delaware country, and that she grew up with the tribe and became as one of them. Some years after it was learned where she was but she refused to return to her parents.

Phebe, married Benjamin Castimore, and Elizabeth married Gerret Kimble, the progenitors of the names of that section of Morris County. Abraham died at an age of 104 years. Jacob settled and built the first houses of logs east of where the Clinton reservoir now is and had children: Leonard, Frederick, Abraham, Willhelm, Mary and perhaps others. Leonard married Rachel Davenport, who was the mother of Almeda, wife of Joel Harrison, of Stockholm, and died at his house in the '50s at an advanced age. Frederick, who settled at Clinton, married Polly, daughter of John and Leah (Brooks) Davenport, and Mary married Abraham (Brom) Van-Druff, the progenitor of that family. The Angle family was also connected with the Coles by marriage in the early settlement of Clinton. Samuel Angle, son of John and Mary (Burwell) Angle, who came from Newark and settled in the Sparta mountains, settled near Clinton and had children: Edward, who married Elizabeth Phillips, daughter of David, (the drummer boy in the Revolution,) and Nancy Rose. Joshua, David's father served in the Revolution. Catharine, married Frederick Cole, Jr.; Betsey, married Abraham Cole; Polly, married Silas VanOrden, and Mary, married William Wagoner. All being old residents and of revolutionary stock. The name Polly and Mary seems to have been two distinct names.

At this date, for want of the old records, we have accepted old traditions, as it would be impossible to trace the original Cole family, with all their intermarriages with the early settlers, the hardy pioneers, of Morris County. Their descendants have been numerous, and scattered through the early settlements, and have been well represented in Revolutionary and Civil wars.

The Davenport Family.

Among the earliest settlers of Northern Morris County were the Davenports and Kimbles who came from Devonshire, Eng., and the Pollisons, Mowersons, VanDerhoofs and Coles who came from Holland.

Humphrey Davenport, wife and three sons settled at New Foundland about 1720. He was a surveyor, and his son John came in possession of lands at Milton about 1740 or '50. Humphrey, Jr., had seven sons, one of which, Capt. Cornelius served in the Revolution. He kept store and tavern, and built the first grist mill at Milton, married a Rachel Davenport, but whose daughter history and tradition fail to mention.

Children: Capt. Enos, born Mar. 14, 1792, married Fanny Keepers, May 1, 1819, who was born Nov. 8, 1798. She was a daughter of one of the early settlers in the Sparta mountains. John C. married Delilah Turner, Nathan, Charles, Cornelius, Jr., Phebe, Julia Ann, Fanny and Mahalah.

Germany, who settled in Northern Morris County. Samuel was born Jan. 3, 1780, died Apr. 19, 1863.

The Farber Family.

In the early days of Morris County the name Farber occasionally occurs. The name is spelled in many ways. Tradition has it that they were a German people and first settled near Morristown, N. J., probably between Mendham and Morristown. Paul Farber and wife Mary were early members of the Presbyterian Church at Morristown, and the records have Amos, baptized Oct. 30, 1763; Paul, baptized Apr. 21, 1765; Anne, baptized Aug. 13, 1768; a child died July 14, 1769; Hannah, was born Nov. 17, 1770, baptized June 30, 1771; Elizabeth, born Mar. 16, baptized June 23, 1775; a child died Aug. 9, 1777.

A Mrs. Farber, probable mother of Paul, died Feb. 1776, at the age of 104 years. They probably moved away soon after 1777. The Rockaway records have early dates of the family. Paul Farber, Jr., settled near Stockholm in 1785 from Rockaway, N. J.; he died Mar. 1848, and is buried at the old "Lyons" burial ground near Stockholm, N. J. His wife was Elizabeth Rude, a sister of Caleb Rude, who removed from Morris County to near Hamburg, in Sussex County, at an early date. She died 1842 aged 81 years.

Hannah Farber born Nov. 17, 1770, married Thomas Harrison, who located at Canisteer, N. J., then called Winchester, in 1764. They had children: William, Joel and Mary, who married Feb. 1827, Isaac VanGelder, who attended lock near Dover, N. J., many years ago, and they had perhaps other children.

Joel Harrison lived near Stockholm, N. J., married Almeda, daughter of Leonard Cole, who was born Feb. 12. 1798, and had children: John, born 1820, married Garrison, of West Milford, N. J.; Thomas, born 1822, married Cary, of West Milford; Elizabeth, never married; Harriet, married Anthony Brannin, of Mt. Hope, N. J.; Abraham, married Elizabeth Henderson, of Canisteer, N. J.; William, Jacob, Henry, Hannah and Augusta. Nearly all removed West.

Paul Farber, Jr., bought considerable lands, as the old deeds show, in Vernon and Hardiston townships, Sussex county, N. J., and was connected with many business enterprises. Children of Paul and Elizabeth (Rude) Farber: Anna married Nicholas Ryerson, of Vernon, N. J.; Elizabeth married Peter Ryerson of the same place; Paul, born 1793, married Lucy, some records have Lucinda, daughter of Abraham A. Strait, of Canisteer, N. J.; Caleb married Elizabeth LaRoe, of New Foundland, N. J.; Israel, born 1800, married Abigail Rickey, of Vernon, died Dec. 25, 1872; Abigail married Samuel Givens, of Vernon. Caleb and Israel lived in the old Farber neigh borhood, near Vernon, and have many descendants in Sussex county. Paul, who married Lucy Strait, headed a party of about thirty families from Sussex county and settled in Franklin county, Ohio, in 1835, and these families are now scattered through many of the Western States.

The Goble Family.

The traditions of the Goble family were that they were French Hugenots who fled to prevent religious persecutions and settled in North Carolina, and that their names originally were Enoch, Abner, Silas, Aaron and Martha. A large number of the descendants, probably not all of one family, settled in Morris county, N. J., previous to 1750. John, married Elizabeth Burwell, Dec. 22, 1748, and is mentioned in the early Rockaway records. Simeon, a probable son of Enoch, as the name of Enoch runs in the family line, married Abigail Conger Feb. 23, 1749, he died about 1775, and had children: Enoch, Abner, Sally, Martha, Luther and Calvin, perhaps others. His wife married (2) Ebenezer Stiles, May 4, 1778, as second wife, lived at Morris Plains, N. J. She was born 1732, died Dec. 7, 1810. William Goble married Sarah Conger Mar. 21, 1760. Benjamin Goble married Elizabeth Conger March 3, 1757. Henry Goble married Lydia Conger Dec. 11, 1765. Robert Goble, born 1700, died Mar. 29, 1783. His wife, Mary, born 1701, died Feb. 20, 1786. Aaron Goble born 1752, married Charity Lindsley Jan. 30, 1772, died Feb. 1, 1802. His wife born 1751 died June 4, 1795. Daniel Goble married Priscilla Cook Apr. 1, 1744. Jonas Goble married Ruth Fairchild Dec. 10, 1765. Ruth Goble married Nathan Reeve Feb. 18, 1768. Rachel Goble married Isaac Southard Apr. 12, 1769. Hannah Goble married Ichabod Tompkins Dec. 24, 1746. Salome married Ebenezer Fairchild Aug. 1750. Sally married Josephus Gard June 23, 1798.

Of the children of Benjamin and Experience Conger, Simeon married Abigail Goble and Benjamin married Elizabeth Goble. This is a most singular occurrence that two brothers of the same name in one family should marry sisters of the same name in another family.

Enoch, the probable son of Simeon, married (1) Abigail (Ogden) Stiles, daughter of David Ogden, and widow of Thomas Stiles. She died soon after marriage. (2) Mary Cooper, who was born 1746, died Oct. 21, 1798. Children: Mary (twin) married Jacob, son of Uzal Tompkins, Phebe (twin) married Jedediah, son of Timothy Mills. William, born 1798, married Hannah, daughter of Uzal Tompkins, Dec. 17, 1799, died Oct. 14, 1833. She died Mar. 9, 1860. Enoch married and went to Ohio, had Israel and Tempe, who died before 1840. Enoch married (3) Hannah Doty.

Children of William and Hannah (Tompkins) Goble: Mary, born Sept. 25, 1800, married William M. Crane, of New Vernon, N. J., 1825. Lucinda, born Aug. 4, 1803, never married, died Oct. 3, 1833. Benjamin, born at Sparta, Sussex county, N. J., Dec. 29, 1806. His parents removed from Sparta to New Vernon when he was nine months old, married (1) Catharine Losey, had nine children. (2) Margaret Smith, had three children, died at New Vernon Aug. 1898. Harsey King, born at New Vernon Jan. 28, 1809, died Mar. 4, 1846. Henry Tompkins, born at New Vernon July 5, 1814, died Oct. 17, 1815.

Catharine Losey)was a daughter of Aaron and Alice Simcox) Losey. Alice Simcox was born Jan. 23, 1772, died Dec. 16, 1836. Their daughter, Phebe Ann, married Joseph Jackson, son of Daniel Ayres, of Franklin, Sept. 27, 1827. Alice (Simcox) Losey married (2) Deacon John Hill 1808, and had children: Jane, John O. and Harriet. Tradition relates that she was a sister of Mary Simcox, wife of Capt. William Alger, of Rockaway. Deacon John and wife Alice were buried at Morristown Baptist Cemetery, and removed to the Hill Cemetery at Franklin. N. J.

I am indebted to the late Benjamin Goble, who made a visit in July 1898, but a few weeks before his death, for many of the connections and dates of this family and also of the Tompkins family so nearly related. "Uncle" Ben, as every one in this section called him, was then in his 93rd year and then bid fair to reach the century mark. In the early days whole communities were so nearly related by the intermarriages that all were "Uncle," "Aunt" and "Cousins." Very many of the Goble family were connected with the Baptist church at Morristown, N. J., and buried there, and a few are on the early records of the Rockaway church, and are probably buried in the cemetery.

The Huntington Family.

The Huntington family came from Norwich, Eng. Simon, his wife Margaret (Berret) formally a French Hugenot, and their three sons, Christopher, Simon (2) and Thomas. On the voyage he was taken ill with fever and dysentery, one authority says smallpox, and died while in sight of land near the mouth of the Connecticut river, was buried at Saybrook, Ct., 1633. He was born 1583. He had a brother Samuel in England who was captain in the King's Life Guard.

His wife became a member of the Rev. John Elliot's church at Roxbury, Mass., where she probably married as the third wife of Thomas Stoughton, of Winsor, who came from Dorcester, Eng., on the same ship with Simon Huntington. The sons settled at Saybrook, Ct. Christopher and Simon went afterward to Norwich, Ct., and Thomas to Winsor, Ct., and from thence to Branford, Ct., and with the Branford Colony in May 1666, to Newark, N. J.

Thomas married (1) a daughter of William Swaine, of Whethersfield, Ct. (2) Hannah, daughter of Jasper Crane, merchant, who moved from New Haven, Ct., to Banford, Ct., 1652, and came with the Banford Colony to Newark in 1666. Thomas was born in England about 1626, died at Newark 1687. Hannah, his widow, married (2) John Wardsen as second wife.

Thomas and Hannah (Crane) had children: Samuel and Hannah. Samuel was born 1667 died 1708. The will dated Nov. 11, 1704, names children, Thomas, who had wife Susanna; Simon born 1686 had wife Thankful, died in Morris county, perhaps at Whippany, July 17, 1770, and Hannah. The will of Simon mentions a brother Samuel.

Children of Simon and wife Thankful (who was she?): Samuel had wife Elizabeth; Eunice married Isaac Ogden, one of the founders and subscribers of the Rockaway Church in 1758. Probably lived, died and was buried there, date unknown. Phebe, married Gershom Gard, son on Jemimah and Elizabeth, Jan. 18, 1758, lived at Ninkey, N. J., removed to Ohio in 1787. Capt. Gershom Gard was one of the seven sons who served in the Revolution. Elizabeth married Thomas, son of Timothy Pierson, Dec. 10. 1760. He was born 1737, died May 16, 1782, both probably buried at Rockaway. Sarah married Winter; Simon married Sybe; John married Elizabeth Heady, of Morristown, N. J., by Rev. Timothy Johnes, June 16, 1750. He was resident at Morristown, and member of the Presbyterichurch to 1758, when he became a resident and manager of the iron works at Shongum, and was prominent as a member, officer and subscriber to the Rockaway church, holding at this early date pew number one. Deacon John was quartermaster under Gen. William Winds.

Children of John and Elizabeth (Heady) Huntington. Symon, baptized July 29, 1759; Gillard, baptized Feb. 21, 1760, both become members of the Rockaway church in 1793. John was born at Shongum, Nov. 2, 1779, and baptized there Oct. 21, 1782. Abraham, of Shongum, married Sarah Losey, May 10, 1796. Deacon John Huntington died about 1782 or 3 as no records of the church show, his children remained at Shongum until about 1800. He was more than probably buried at Rockaway, this being at the time of "Dark Ages" for church records, no mention is made at Rockaway or at Morristown. As none of the name was among the list of communicants Oct. 11, 1808, it is probable the families removed not later than 1800.

Soon after the Revolution many of the old families of this section sought the more fertile lands of the West, Western New York, Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana, and not a few to Vermont, and with them the old Bibles that contained the records of the old families.

This sketch may seem insignificant to the general reader, but researches have been made from the New Englald Genealogical Records, Savage's Genealogies, The Huntington Family, Conger's Newark Families, State and County records, Church records of Rockaway and Morristown, and all these fail to show many of the minor details that would make it more of interest.

The names Simon and Samuel are prominent in the family connections. Samuel Huntington, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence was son of Nathaniel, the farmer, the son of Deacon Joseph, the son of Deacon Simon, of Saybrook, Conn., the son of Simon who died on the voyage from England. Samuel Huntington, son of Rev. Joseph, was governor of Ohio in 1808-10. He died July 8, 1817. Gen. Jedediah Huntington, graduate of Harvard 1763, of Yale 1770, the son of Thomas, the son of Christopher, the son of Simon the first, was aid-de-camp to Gen. Washington. He was born at Norwich, Conn., Aug. 15, 1743, died at New London, Conn., Sept. 18, 1818.

The Kimble Family.

The Kimble and Davenport families came from Devonshire, England, and are connected with that family, the Coles, and VanDerhoofs, by many intermarriages during the early settlements in Morris County, N. J. The progenitor of this family, name unknown, his wife and four sons, settled near Milton, Morris county, N. J. Three of the sons did service in the Revolution, two of which were killed in the service, the survivor settled somewhere in Virginia. William, the younger son, was a physician and remained on the home property. He married Elizabeth Cole, the daughter of Leonard, who came from Amsterdam, Holland. They had a large family.

Fredericks, died ——— 1898; Elizabeth, born June 18, 1818; Rachel, born July 22, 1820; Amelia, born Aug. 18, 1822, married William Monks, died Mar. 19, 1873; Matilda, born Oct. 21, 1824; Nancy, born Jan. 25, 1827; Hannah, born Mar. 17, 1829; William A., born

The Lee Family.

In writing of this historic family so nearly related to many of our Morris County families in Revolutionary times, and in the research so much valuable information has been learned that it will be more extended than many others. The recent collections of Miss Sidney Lyon and Gen. Albert Lee, (Civil War) and from many other sources I am enabled to connect the relationship for many generations. I shall be pleased to learn any additional information or correction, from the readers of this sketch.

The founder of this family was Lancelot de Lee, who came over with William the Conqueror in the Norman conquest to England. He so distinguished himself in the battle of Hastings Saturday, Oct. 14, 1066, which lasted from early morn until sunset, and in which the English were totally defeated that William the Conqueror rewarded him with large estates in Essex, Eng. Lionel Lee, a direct descendant of Lancelot, fought with King Richard I in the Holy Land, and displayed such valor in the taking of Acre, June 8 to July 12, 1191, that he was rewarded with large estates and made Earl of Litchfield.

Tradition relates that John Lee, of Lee Hall, Nottingham, Eng., the third Earl of Litchfield, had one son Robert. Robert Lee had son William, who on account of religious persecution fled to the colonies and settled at Hempstead, L. I., 1675. He married Mary Marvin, whose mother's maiden name was Mary Brown, and died at Hempstead 1724. Of Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Lee, we have no records.

In 1683 the Governor of New York required the town of Hempstead to take out a new patent, and 2½ pence per acre was levied on all lands held by individuals in the town which numbered 160, number of acres 16,563. William Lee was assessed with 40 acres.

William and Mary (Marvin) Lee had Thomas, who was a farmer near Hempstead. He was never married. After the death of his brother Joseph, who married Abigail Price, of Hempstead, and died in middle age, he reared the children and became well to do. John and Robert, sons of William, served in the Colonial wars with the French, and both died of fever soon after their return home at Hempstead. William had also six daughters, of whom no records are found.

Children of Joseph and Abigail (Price) Lee: Joseph, born May 14, 1713, married Sarah Wright Feb. 28, 1733, died 1760. John, baptized at Hempstead Sept. 25, 1726, married Sarah, daughter of Capt. Thomas, baptized at Hempstead July 1, 1728, married Dinah Perrine, daughter of Capt. Peter. She was born at Staten Island 1731, died at Littleton, N. J., 1791. Thomas was a Revolutionary soldier; died at the residence of his son Maj. William at Littleton, Jan. 7, 1804. John and Thomas removed from Hempstead to the nothern part of Westchester County, N. Y. John's farm was afterwards owned by Maj. Paulding, one of the captors of Maj. John Andre, now the property of Jacob L. Strang, who married a Lee. Thomas removed to Littleton, Morris county, N. Putnam, who tried him as a spy. He was found guilty and was executed on Gallows Hill, north of Peekskill, N.Y., Aug. 1777.

The collections of Gen. Albert Lee give valuable data to present generations of the descendants of Joseph and John Lee. Gen. Albert Lee was son of Moses Lindsley Lee, grandson of Daniel and great-great-grandson of Thomas Lee and Dinah Perrine.

It will be noticed that the Lee and Perrine families were connected by marriage, and that many of the children have the name Perrine. There is a tradition that Count Perrin or Perrine was a Huguenot and refugee from Rouen, France. Daniel Perrine came in ship Phillip, from the Isle of Jersey and settled at Staten Island 1665. He was born 1630, died on Staten Island 1700. He married Marie Thorel Feb. 18, 1666, at Elizabeth Town by Rev. James Bollen. It is said to be the first marriage license in New Jersey. She died 1680. Their daughters, Sarah and Dinah, married brothers, John and Thomas Lee.

The following letter from Major William Lee and his wife Abigail Byram, of Littleton, to Peter Lee will be of interest, as being one of the usual style written by friends and relatives to those who emigrated to the West in those early days. The method of transportation was a common one of that date. The address given for an answer was also in common usage. State of New Jersey, Morris County, Hanover township, Littleton. Relationships will be shown in the history or genealogy of this well-known Morris County family.

November 21, 1810.

DEAR BROTHER: I take this opportunity to inform you that I am well and the family at this time. I hope these few lines will find you in good health. I received a letter from you three years ago by the hand of Mr. Lyon. At that time I was sick and did not say anything to the man, but that I was very glad to hear from you and your family. I have this night come three miles to write to you, so that you must not think I have forgotten you yet. I have nothing new to write, but I will let you know how many children we have, five sons and five daughters. (Here follows the names of children to this date, which are given with dates.) Dear brother you may wonder why my children have not all of them two names. I will tell you the reason is that I was fearful there would not be names enough to be found. If you have any good names in your country, except your own, you will send me one or two or as many more as you think will be wanted and oblige your brother. I send this letter by the hand of Stephen Lee, son of Paul Lee, and Joseph Lee, son of Israel Lee, in company. I have not seen our brother Thomas Lee for almost seven years, but I heard from him last May and he was well. The family at that time had two children, one son and one daughter. I conclude and remain your brother,

WILLIAM LEE.

To PETER LEE: Now dear brother, since William has complimented you so well, I will talk with you on other subjects. Father Lee lived with us a little more than thirteen years. It is useless to tell you how it is, enough to describe the last thirteen months of his life. The first part of December he was taken strangely ill, for two months we were with him night and day. He recovered his health, but had lost the use of his legs. He would feed himself when the victuals were brought to his bedside. He never walked a step more while he lived. Some time in November he was taken more ill. The last of December we could plainly see a great alteration. New Years morning he gave us all the satisfaction we ever wanted. He was fully satisfied with all that we had ever done for him. He wished for all the children to come to his room that he might see them all before he died. He kissed them all and remained in that affectionate state of mind until the seventh day on which he died. You have heard the number of our children and a small part of the change of our father. Taken into consideration, few have so long experienced that faithful saying, once a man and twice a child.

Dear brother and sister since so long an interval by the way of a letter, I think we can all afford to pay postage. I kindly request you to send an answer by post immediately after you receive these few broken lines, since we have no other acquaintance than by letter. I remain the sincere relation that I now stand. My love to all. ABIGAIL LEE.

P. S. January 1810 will be six years since our father left this world. He told me to remember him to all his children as I should have opportunity. I wrote you a number of letters but have received no answer from you. L.

This letter to Peter Lee is in possession of Frank Lee, son of Rodney Jefferson Lee, the son of Peter Lee.

Richard Lee a lineal descendant from the Earls, of Litchfield, came from England to the Colony of Virginia, with Sir William Berkeley in 1641, distinguished as naval officer, and died in the Colony in 1663. He had sons Robert (2), Hancock and Charles.

Richard Lee (2) born 1647, was a naval officer, married Letitia Corbin in 1674. She died 1706. He died 1714. They had six sons and one daughter, Ann, who married Col. William Fitzhugh, the progenitor of the Fitzhugh family in Virginia. Thomas, the fifth son, married Hannah, daughter of Col. Phillip Ludwell, who was governor of the Virginia Colony in 1750. Thomas had six sons.

Thomas Ludwell Lee became a popular man in the Colony. Richard Henry Lee, born Jan. 20, 1732, married his cousin, Hannah Philippa Ludwell, was signer of the Declaration of Independence, died June 19, 1794. Francis Lightfoot Lee was also signer of the Declaration of Independence and of the Continental Congress. William, represented the United States at Vienna and The Hague. Philip Ludwell Lee, with his brother Francis founded Leesburg, Va. Arthur Lee, born Dec. 10, 1740, was commissioner to France, died unmarried, Dec. 12, 1792.

Henry Lee, brother of Thomas, and sixth son of Richard, Jr., married Mary Bland and had three sons: Charles Lee, Washington's attorney general; "Light Horse Harry," born Jan. 29, 1756, married (1) his cousin, Matilda Lee, and had four children; married (2) Ann Hill Carter and had six children. He was appointed major general and was a member of Congress in 1799; died in Georgia March 25, 1818. Sidney Smith Lee, was the father of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee.

The youngest son of "Light Horse Harry" was Robert Edward Lee, born Jan. 19, 1807, married 1831 Mary, daughter of George Washington Park Custis; had five children, died Oct. 12, 1870.

Children of Gen. Robert E. Lee: George Washington Custis, W. H. Fitzhugh, Robert Edward, Jr., Mildred, and one other daughter.

Gen. Charles Lee of Revolutionary service, once a formidable rival of Washingtod, and who was captured by the British in Morris County, N. J., is not related to the Virginian Lees.

The following may be a personal history or experience somewhat relating to the Lee family and the Civil War. In the winters of '59, '60 and '61 some fifteen or twenty of the boys from Stockholm and Newfoundland, N. J., found employment at Williamsburg, Va. They usually went from New York on the Roanoke or Jamestown, two rickety old steamers that plied between New York and Richmond, landing at King's Mill Wharf near Williamsburg. These steamers were captured by the confederacy, and on the appearance of the Monitor in Southern waters, they with other craft were sunk near the mouth of the Appomattox river. To me they were objects of special interest in my excursions in war times on "Jeems" River.

At Williamsburg it was a strange sight, and one not noticed in our Northern papers, to see fortnightly on Saturday afternoons, all turn out for military drill and we attended from curiosity at these regular trainings in the old College City.

The usual number went down in '60 and '61 and in the Spring the Southern States were seceding very rapidly, and a large number of the boys were delayed in coming home until Virginia had seceded, and it was then impossible, and had it not been for the personal interest of Gen. Custis, of Williamsburg, Va., who was a lineal descendant of the Lees, Fitzhughs, and the first husband of Martha Washington, and the father of Robert E. Lee's wife, the boys would have conscripted in the Confederate army, but passes were furnished by Gen. Custis, and the boys allowed to cross the lines to their homes.

The great majority of the boys on their return home enlisted in the Union army, and many fought over the same grounds they had become familiar with. I relate one incident of the war, John Nelson Kimble, who enlisted in the 15th N. J. Infantry, and when near Williamsburg came across an old acquaintance, a negro boy, a slave of Gen. Custis, and followed Master Nell, and became a mascot to the old 15th Regiment becoming useful in camp duties until the close of the war. After the war Kimble married, went to Ohio, and being an acquaintance with the daring General Custer, and enlisted, a short time before the Custer massacre on June 25, 1876, and he was never heard of more.

War had many strange personal experiences, at one time we were encamped on the sunny side of the Gen. Lee Mansion, and as raw recruits were facing the General with his well-drilled veterans, and at another on the trail of the General and his retreating army. On the memorable 3d day of April, 1865. our battery, the 4th N. J., was the first to enter Richmond to find that Lee had evacuated the city only a few hours before. We were detailed to hold our position at Camp Lee, while the Cavalry and Infantry followed in haste. Soon followed the greatest event of the war, "Lee had surrendered, and the war was over."

As the news of the surrender came up the James River, we first heard the cannons firing in quick succession, and as the news reached the camps and forts nearer, we could hear the accompaniment, the bands were playing, and as the news reached us our own cannons were firing very rapidly, but only with blank cartridges, and the bands all over the city of Richmond were playing in double quick time, and this was repeated to the north of us until the cannons' roar became as faint in the distance as when we first heard them. But few, Union or Confederate, slept on that eventful night, Lee had surrendered and the war was over.

We saw General Lee on several occasions, not as a prisoner of war, but as one of the greatest American generals. The boys in blue had frequent occasions to acknowledge this fact, but now, that the war was over, he was safe to pass through our ranks everywhere, bearing the honors of a true soldier, and later as a quiet peace-loving citizen. There has been a final roll call to the great majority of the actors of the brave and noble deeds, and they are now only war memories to the few, and recalled as some wild, wierd dream of the past.

Gen. "Light Horse Harry" Lee.

This celebrated soldier, who largely occupied the public eye in the Revolution, is worthy of notice, both as an eminent member of the Lee family, and as the father of General Robert E. Lee.

He was born in 1756, in the county of Westmoreland, Va., which boasts of being the birth place of Washington, Monroe, Richard Henry Lee, General Henry Lee and General Robert E. Lee. Presidents, statesmen and soldiers—and, after graduating at Princeton College, entered the army in 1776, as captain of cavalry, an arm of the service afterward adopted by his more celebrated descendant, in the United States Army. He soon displayed military ability of high order, and, for the capture of Paulus' Hook, received a gold medal from Congress. In 1781 he marched with his "Legion" to join Greene in the Carolinas, carrying with him the high esteem of Washington, who had witnessed his skillful and daring operations in the Jerseys. His career in the arduous campaigns of the South against Cornwallis, and the efficient commander of his cavalry arm, Colonel Tarleton, may be best understood from General Greene's dispatches, and from his own memoirs of the operations of the army, which are written with as much modesty as ability. From these it is apparent that the small body of the "Legion" cavalry, under its active and daring commander, was the "eye and the ear" of Greene's army, whose movements it accompanied everywhere, preceding its advance, and covering its retreats. Few pages of military history are more stirring than those of Lee's memoirs describing Green's retrograde movement to the Dan; and this alone, if the hard work at the Eutaws and elsewhere were left out, would place Lee's fame as a cavalry officer upon a lasting basis. The distinguished soldier, under whose eye the Virginian operated, did full justice to his courage and capacity.

"I believe," wrote Gen. Greene, "that few officers either in Europe or America, are held in so high a position of admiration as you are. Everybody knows I have the highest opinion of you as an officer, and you know I love you as a friend. No man in the progress of the campaign, had equal merit with yourself." The officer who wrote those lines was not a courtier or a diplomatist, but a blunt and honest soldier, who had seen Lee's bearing in the most arduous straits, and was capable of appreciating military ability. Add Washington's expression of his "love and thanks" in a letter written in 1789, and the light in which he was regarded by his contemporaries will be understood.

His "Memoirs of the War in the Southern Department" is a valuable military history and a very interesting book.

After the war General Henry Lee served a term in congress; was then elected governor of Virginia; returned in 1799 to congress, and, in his oration upon the death of Washington, employed the well known phrase, "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." He died in Georgia in the year 1818, having made a journey thither for the benefit of his health.

General Henry Lee was married twice; first, as we have said, to his cousin Matilda, through whom he became in possession of the old family estate of Stratford, Va.; and the second time, June 18, 1793, to Miss Anne Hill Carter, a daughter of Charles Carter, Esq., of "Shirley" on James River. The children of his second marriage were three sons and two daughters: Charles Carter, Robert Edward, Smith, Ann and Mildred.

Col. John Munson.

The Presbyterian Church Records show that Capt, John Munson became a member in 1773. He was connected with the iron interest of Rockaway previous to the Revolution, and built "Guinea Forge" about 1770, which he sold with 2,600 acres, to Joshua Winget, having failed in the iron business. The same tract was surveyed by Thomas Millage to Benj. Beach and Col. John Munson. He resided about one mile north of Rockaway on the Hibernia road. Was captain at the beginning of the Revolution, a member of the Committee of Safety and Lt. Col. in 1776, and as colonel enlisted men in Rockaway and vicinity June 5, 1778, to serve nine months in the 1st Reg. New Jersey Brigade. He probably died soon after this service, as no mention is made of him in the Church Records after the Revolution.

No records as to who he married. Children were: Daniel, Elizabeth, born Feb. 12, 1763, married Nathaniel Fairchild June 24, 1799, who was a soldier in the Revolution, as these Bible records were sent to the pension office to secure the pension of the said Elizabeth Fairchild. Anna, married Minton, probably of Rockaway; Margaret and John.

Col. John was a probable brother of Capt. Solomon Munson, Jr., who married Mary Pierson Oct. 10, 1753. He was born 1725, died Feb. 8, 1803, and belonged to the 1st Company of the 3d Battalion. His son Ezekiel settled Munson's Hill, Dover; was born 1761 and died Sept. 2, 1828. His wife Rhoda was born 1765 and died Nov. 15, 1827. Both buried in the Rockaway Cemetery. Descendants are still numerous in Morris and Sussex counties. Will not some of them give further information in regard to Col. John Munson, of Rockaway?

The Pollison Family.

Among the early settlers in Morris County in the lands bordering the Sussex line, called Holland Mountain, were the Powlsons and Monrsons, both descendants from early Holland Dutch families, and closely connected by intermarriages.

Paulus Pieterse married Trintic Martin, came to New York before 1658; both died 1702. Child Martin Paulisse married Margrietje Westervelt in 1694. Child Paulus Martense married Rachel Demorest 1731, they had Martin, Jacobus and John, perhaps others. John married Gertrude Terhune and had son John, who married Mary Cleveland, a descendant of Moses, the ancestor of Grover Cleveland. John, Jr., had Henry, born 1781, married Mary Mowerson Sept. 23, 1804, by Rev. Ebenezer Jayne, of Milton, N. J. He died June 19, 1854. Jacob was married by Jayne Feb. 14, 1806, to Catharine Mowerson. Edward also married a Catharine Mowerson. Isaac, born Jan. 18, 1779, married Elizabeth Mowerson 1798, died Sept. 30, 1865. She was born May 10, 1783, died May 2, 1859, buried at the old cemetery on Holland Mountain.

Children of Isaac and Elizabeth: John, born Nov. 28, 1799, married Betsey DeCamp Sept. 1826, removed West. Abila, born Jan. 17, 1802, died young. Henry, born Feb. 28, 1803, married Phebe Henderson, daughter of Moses, died June 13, 1888. She was born 1707, died May 6, 1872. The Wiggins Family.

A British biographer of Washington once made the assertion that in all the battles of the Revolution, Washington was never found at the front with the men he commanded. To prove to the contrary it was related by Jonathan Wiggins, who was at the battle of Monmouth, N. J., and lost an arm there. that the company to which Wiggins was attached, had made an advance to a point far exceeding the rest of the army, when Washington rode up and ordered a retreat to a position of less danger.

Wiggins related that he with others were climbing over a high Virginia rail fence, when a British cannon ball struck in the line of fence and completely demolished the under part of the fence, as they were in the act of getting over it, and scattered the fragments far and wide, much to the discomfort of the whole company. Fortunately no one was killed; a few were slightly injured and all badly scared.

Soon after this occurrence he lost an arm at Monmouth, and soon afterwards returned to Mt. Hope and was placed in command of Faesch's favorite team, a position of honor, especially when that team knew their driver and learned that his word was law, and his whip was gospel. It is related that he became an expert in the use of the whip, not as an instrument of cruelty and punishment, but as a capital punishment to any refractory flies that might annoy the team, and it is said could kill a fly that alighted upon the leaders ear without touching the ear with the whip.

When distinguished company came to the "big house," still standing and remarkably well preserved for one of its age, Faesch would amuse his visitors by getting Wiggins to show his expertness with the whip, by taking a chicken's head off with one blow from the whip. These stories have been handed down and related so many times that the narrators have believed them true, and as I have no means of confirming or rejecting the same, am not willing to give vouchers for authenticity.

The Wiggins family came from Germany, but when, history does not relate. The first of the name recorded in Morris County, is one Stephen Wiggins, who married Sarah White in Jan. 19, 1752.

I am indebted to many of my correspondents and records of Rockaway, Morristown, Hanover and Newark for this and other Beach lines. For fear this sketch and the reader's patience may grow somewhat unequal, I leave out very many of the lines of later date. Fred H. Beach, of Dover, has made extensive research in the line of John of later date, and George M. Beach, of Chicago, has over 5,000 of the line of Zopher who came to Newark.

The Clark Family.

Among the earliest settlers in Morris County was Henry Clark, who it is said was born in England, more probably Scotland, as the Clarks were nearly all of Scotch descent, about 1695, came to Suffolk county, L. I., from thence to Elizabeth, and from thence in 1724 to Morristown, when it was said to have only three houses, perhaps only three frame houses, and then set out in the wilderness and located lands about a mile above Brookside toward Mt. Freedom. Cleared land and built a log house there. In the spring he returned to Long Island, married Anne ——, who was born in England in1693. She probably came over on the same ship. They occupied the log house in 1725, their neighbors were few, but they had a goodly supply of land, 563 acres more or less, and it was here that their daughter Abigail was born 1726. She afterwards married Nathaniel Doty, Jr., who settled on adjoining lands south. He died 1792. Anne, the second daughter, was born here 1729, and married Samuel Cozard, Sr., 1753, settled on lands adjoining Doty, probably now Brookside, N. J. She died about 1770. He married (2) Priscilla (Burt) Fairchild about 1785. He was born 1725, died 1811. Henry, Jr., the third child, born June 3, 1731, married (1) Massa Faugerson Jan. 23, 1759. She was born May 10, 1728, died Mar. 17, 1762. (2) Sibel Loring, Aug. 18, 1763. She died 1822. He died Jan. 10, 1797. Henry came in possession of the homestead property 1755, soon after the death of his mother. It is probable that the first Henry remarried soon after that date and removed to Shongom, N. J., where tradition relates he had children John, Daniel and Richard, who were early connected with the Rockaway church and removed to Rockaway. John became a member in 1770, elder in 1793, deacon 1809, died Nov. 24, 1813, buried at Rockaway. It is probable that the first Henry, who died 1770, and others of the family were buried at Rockaway.

The second Henry who purchased the homestead in 1775, had children, by 1st wife: Henry (3) born Jan. 20, 1760, married Mary Smith (probably Polly, daughter of William, who was killed on Shongom pond) Feb. 15, 1781. She was born Dec. 20, 1804, died Oct. 27, 1863.

He married a daughter of Abraham, or as the Dutch have it, Brom Davenport, then settled at or near New Foundland, N. J. They were probably, parents of a large family, but there are only two of which we have any records. It is more than probable that Anthony and his wife and others of the family, removed to the West, and all records lost.

The Hathaway Family.

The Hathaways were a numerous family in Morris County, having settled at Morristown and Hanover, N. J., at an early date, and by many intermarriages with the old families were related and connected with very many of the older settlers, many doing service in the Revolution. This sketch will be confined to the lines resident and connected with the Rockaway church and buried in the Cemetery.

Simeon Hathaway and wife, of Morristown, N. J., had children baptized at the Presbyterian church: Elijah, Chloe Samuel and Annie were baptized Nov. 1, 1747; Silas, was born Oct. 12, 1749, baptized Nov. 8, 1749, lived at Rockaway where he married Prudence Baldwin Jan. 24, 1773, was captain in the Revolution. He died Feb. 7, 1803. Both he and his wife Prudence and their son Samuel, who was born Sept. 11, 1874, and died Dec. 17, 1802, are buried at Rockaway. Miriam, daughter of Simeon was baptized Apr. 12, 1752.

About half way between Rockaway and Morristown on the Littleton road, lived Jonathan Hathway. He owned the "Hathaway forge" between his residence and Morris Plains. Jonathan Hathaway was born 1738, died Aug. 26, 1814, buried at Morristown. His near neighbors, the Garrigus, attended the Rockaway Church, while the Hathaways attended church at Morristown. He married (1) Lydia Peck Dec. 20, 1759. She was born 1736, died Sept. 10, 1802. His second wife was Sarah Pruden. She was a daughter of Capt. James Keen, and was second wife of Isaac Pruden. They were married Mar. 26, 1803.

Children: Nathaniel baptized at Morristown June 21, 1761, died Apr. 20, 1770. Sarah, baptized June 5, 1763; Timothy, baptized June 30, 1765, died Aug. 4, 1770; Thankful, born May 15, 1767, married Benjamin Lamson, died 1827, buried at Rockaway. Phebe, born Aug. 18, 1769; Abigail, born Jan. 15, 1772; Jonathan, who was a doctor and dentist, born Dec. 21, 1773; Lydia, born Sept. 25, 1779.

Dr. Jonathan married as his second wife Sally, widow of Moses Cooper. She was a Clifton. They had one son Jonathan, who occupied the Hathaway homestead until about 1870.

The healing powers of Dr. Jonathan Hathaway's salves, ointments and other medicines became known far and wide. Those who had been afflicted for many years applied to him for relief, and returned to their homes almost miraculously cured. We knew one of his patients, Daniel Holly, who lived at Stockholm. He had boasted that he had never known a sick day in his life, but in his later years an ulceration afflicted the sole of his foot, and not having the patience of Job to endure the pain, he applied to Dr. Hathaway for relief, a distance of about thirty miles. The doctor examined the foot, but shook his head doubtfully, it was a case beyond his skill, but finally told him that if he was willing, and thought that it would be more comfortable on the top of his foot, he could change the position. Holly thinking that it would be a relief to have the affliction anywhere from where it was, consented to have the remedies applied. In a few weeks the result was accomplished, but it became so much more painful there, that he returned and consulted Dr. Hathaway to have its location changed to where it was, the change was made, and Holly bore the affliction, a patient sufferer until the day of his death.

If ever a doctor or a dentist, for he was both, delighted in the pulling of teeth for a small consideration it was Dr. Hathaway. In this line he became famous, the suffering humanity who became nearly distracted by a troublesome molar, would travel miles in the dead hour of night for relief, but as usual, as when teeth are going to be extracted in these days, the sight of the dentist with turnkeys and forceps, the achings would suddenly cease out of nervous sympathy, and the patient not having the courage to endure the pain of extraction, would return home when the trouble returned, and the second journey was made with more favorable results.

The doctor and dentist inherited a goodly number of dollars and a small farm, and was a liberal benefactor to the end. When he was about to balance up his accounts with this world, he willed that his posterity should pay "his dear, beloved wife Sally" an annual income of $500 as long as she lived. So long as the visible means were in sight this annuity was strictly complied with, but his posterity died in rather reduced circumstances as his wife Sally, went West to grow up with the country and lived to be over a hundred years old.

The old Hathaway mansion is now very much dilapidated. The clearings made over one hundred and fifty years ago are battling against the supremacy of weeds, briars, brush and timber. The property after three generations of Jonathan Hathaway's changed owners years ago, and but few now know, or have ever heard of its original owners, who formed a part of this ancient history.

The Lyon Family.

The family of Lyon is of great antiqty in Scotland. The ancestor of the family, John de Lyon, came over with William I. He or one of his immediate ancestors settled in Perthshire, in the district still called Glenlyon. Sir John Lyon, son of John de Lyon, " a young man of very good parts and qualities, and a very graceful and comely person, and a great favorite of the king (Robert II,) was Lord High Chamberlain of Scotland. The Princess Jean, the king's daughter, being in love with the fair-favored young man, he received her hand in marriage, and with it the lands of Glamis, 1372." Until that time Glamis was a royal residence of a line that dates back to Kenneth I, 850 A. D. This castle was the scene of Macbeth's crime. The murder of Malcolm II, at Glamis is narrated as an authentic event by the old chroniclers.

Colonial records place William, of Roxbury, (landed 1635, aged 14, ship Hopewell) as the earliest of the "old comers." The American Antiquity, shows this William Lyon as descended from Sir Adam Lyon, knight, first son of John de Lyon, the Feudal Baron, the French family of Leonne, originated from Leones, a partrician family of Rome.

The latters's third son, Sir John Lyon, Baron of Fortevoit, was the ancestor of the Earls, of Strathmore. Gen. Nathaniel Lyon (Civil War) claimed direct descent Sir Thomas Lyon, of Auldbar, Forfarshire, designated master of Glamis, brother of John, the Eighth Lord Glamis, one of the principals in the seizure of James VI, at the raid of Ruthern 1582, and after his return, he with the Earls of Angus and Mar, seized Sterling Castle. Again he fled, but in 1585 was restored to royal favor.

It is further stated that Sir John Lyon had two sons, the first, Earl of Strathmore, the second, Earl of Kingham. Another John Lyon was colonel of the Scottish Guards in the service of Henry IV of France. William Lyon, son of the above John Lyon, having been denounced as a heretic at the time of the massacre of St. Bartholemew, Aug. 24, 1572, escaped to Holland where he received protection and ultimately came with his three children to New England. This would indicate that William of Roxbury was not the first of the Lyon family, of Glenlyon, to seek a home in America.

William, of Roxbury, was a member of the Artillery 1645, free man 1666, died 1692. John Lyon, of Salem, 1638 lived there until 1648. John Lyne, of New Haven, signed covenant 1639. Thomas Lyon settled on Byram river 1640. Henry Lyon was at Milford 1646, John Lyon was at Marblehead 1648. Richard Lyon was at Fairfield 1649. Peter Lyon was at Dorcester 1649.

These men were doubtless clansmen if not near relatives, and were among those who fled from the mother country for religious, political or civil reasons, traitors in their old home, but patriots in their wilderness refuge, and doubtless they were the founders of the Lyon family in the United States, a vast aggregate of people widely separated by time and circumstances, but many of them holding in common the tradition of Glenlyon origin and ancestry.

Although descendants of Robert the Bruce, founder of the House of Stuart, the colonial Lyons were king-haters, especially Stuart-haters. Like the master of Glamis, Sir Thomas Lyon, a number of the Lyons were naturally partakers of treason through fierce and fanatical convictions that demanded personal liberty and condemned kingcraft. These "Puritans" under the persecution, were in sympathy with the Roundhead movement and active adherents of Cromwell.

Tradition says that Richard Lyon, who appeared at Fairfield 1649 after the decapitation of Charles I, was on guard with his two brothers at the scaffold the day of the execution and witnessed the regicide. Daunted by the enormity of this political crime the three secretly took ship for America and landed at Boston, Mass. Here they separated; Richard journeying to Connecticut to settle there.

This Richard is the ancestor of the New Jersey Lyons, of the Henry Lyon, of Milford and Newark. He was of Fairfield 1649, and his house and home lot of two acres, is recorded Jan. 1653. He was made free man 1665. His will dated 1678, mentions wife Margaret, and children Moses, Richard, William, Samuel, Joseph, Hester, wife of Nathaniel Perry, Bettie, Hannah and Abigail. Henry Lyon, the oldest son of Richard, was brother-in-law to Joseph Middlebrook and of Thomas Bateman. The will of William Bateman 1656, gave £5 to grandchild Joseph Middlebrook, one-half of his estate to son Thomas and one-half to son-in-law Henry Lyon.

The general outlook at this time, New Jersey under the charter granted to Berkeley and Carteret, promised greater freedom in civil and religious affairs than could be hoped for with the existing conditions of Connecticut, and they severed home ties for still another pioneer beginning, known only by hearsay.

Staunch they were in all things, sternly zealous in church matters, and sternly opposed to monarchial interference. The spirit of independence that animated the Puritan fathers was transmitted to their descendants, an aversion to the domination of kings that reached a climax in the Essex Riots 1745, which was the first overt act of resistance to the authority of Great Britain, making the men of New Jersey Plantations the earliest aggressors in the cause of civil liberty.

The Percy Family.

Some years ago I became interested in my western cousins, and a curiosity as to what had become of the party whose name had been given me from some cause best known to my parents. The hunting up of ones ancestry is somtimes pursued under great difficulties. These parties had removed from the border lands of Morris County in 1835, to the wilderness in Ohio, the western fever at that date was strangely epidemic. In those pioneer days but few letters were ever exchanged, a new life had commenced in earnest with them and the old lines were soon forgotten. After sixty years all traces of the family were lost. By chance I learned the address of one of the grand children, and from this party I was referred to others. The result is before you.

The Percy family in England date back to the year 1100. Two brothers, William and Joseph, came over when quite young men. William settled at Paterson. N. J., learned the printers trade and went to Albany, N. Y., when all traces were lost. Joseph settled near the border land of Morris County. He was born in England July 7, 1801, married Abigail Crane, daughter of John and Sophia (Myers) Crane, Dec. 1, 1825, removed to Franklin county, Ohio, in 1835, and to Preemption, Mercer county, Ill., in 1855, married Mary (Goff) Adams Oct. 1, 1845. Abigail Crane was born July 5, 1804, died Sept. 22, 1843, buried at Walnut Hill, about eight miles southeast of Columbus, Ohio. He died Dec. 26, 1856, buried three miles west of Preemption, Ill. Mary Goff was born July 14, 1814.

Children: George W., born Oct 29, 1826, married Kate Hawley; (2) Miss Schell, removed to Peoria county, Ill., 1854, died Nov. 12, 1895, buried at Glassford, Ill., had four children. William, born Nov. 16, 1827, never married, died Aug. 3, 1843, buried at Walnut Hill, Ohio. John, born Mar. 27, 1829, never married, died Feb. 14, 1849, buried at Walnut Hill. Charles, born Oct. 17, 1830, married Catharine Beaty, daughter of Samuel, Oct. 25, 1850. (2) Fanny Healey, had five children, removed to Hancock county, O., 1854, thence to Kingston Mines, Peoria county, Ill., and from thence to Notaway county, Mo., in 1871, died there July 14. 1876. Julia E., born Apr. 8, 1832, died Oct. 29, 1855, buried at Walnut Hill. Fanny J., born Mar. 12, 1834; James C., born in Ohio June 28, 1836, died June 7, 1871, buried at "The Dalles," Oregon. Israel, born Oct. 12, 1837, died Nov. 7, 1860, buried at Preemption, Ill. Jeremiah C., born Dec. 15, 1839, married Jennie C. Lowe, of Mercer county, Ill., 1867, living near Parnell City, Mo., served four years in Co. E, 7th Iowa Inf., was wounded at Resaca, Ga., in "Sherman's march to the sea." Samuel, born Aug. 19, 1841, married ———— Rohr, living at Columbus O. Frances Marion born Sept. 20, 1843, married, lived in Franklin county, O., died Sept. 20, 1877. Martha Ellen, born Jan. 19, 1855, married Albert Whitaker, have two children.

My informants also gave the names and dates of grandchildren which are here omitted, also politics and religion of all the members.

The Strait Family.

Among the early settlers of Morris County, were Abraham Strait, his wife, name unknown, and family of five sons and one daughter. They came from Holland and settled at Milton, about 1750.

Abraham (2) settled at Canisteer, Sussex county, N. J., then called Winchester. He married Charlotte Comer, who was born at sea, bought largely of real estate, and being a carpenter by trade, built the first frame house there, and the second forge about 1780. Many of these lands were located by Hartshorn Fritz Randolph Dec. 7, 764.

Children of Abraham (2) and Charlotte (Comer) Strait: David A., married Sarah Smith and lived near Canisteer, N. J. William C., married Sarah Brown, lived at Canisteer. Catharine, married Adam, son of John I. and Catharine (McCloud) Smith, July 20, 1816, lived at Canisteer. Lucinda, or Lucy as some of the records have it, married Paul Farber, Jr., who came from Rockaway, went to Ohio in 1830, died there. A daughter, name unknown, married James Paddock, lived at Cherry Ridge. Jane, married William, son of Samuel Dunn, lived near Canisteer. Stephen Strait, married and removed from Milton, N. J., to Ohio. No records of children. John went to Tennessee, no records. Ann married John Davenport, who was connected with some of the first forges near Milton. Christian, or Christoffel, name uncertain, remained at Milton. Some of the descendants settled at Sparta, N. J., and from thence came to Rockaway. Jacob Strait, the youngest of the family, born 1740, married Abigail Gould, who came from Holland June 16, 1774. He died at Beattystown near the dividing line of Morris and Sussex counties, Nov. 18, 1792. His wife married (2) Aaron Bedford, of Stockholm, N. J. (3) ———— Davenport, and died Feb. 1, 1803.

Children: Elizabeth, born Nov. 2, 1775, married Moses Dow, soldier of 1812 War. She died Jan. 11, 1832. He married as his second wife Elizabeth ———, born Dec. 1799, died June 7, 1883. Both buried at Rockaway. Sarah, born July 22, 1778, married William, son of Robert and Phebe (Gardiner) Headley, Oct. 12, 1797, lived at Milton, died Sept. 2, 1849. Both buried in Headley Cemetery at Milton. John, born Mar. 24, 1781, married and removed to Ohio about 1805. Mary, born Aug. 25, 1783, married William Carr, removed to Port Clinton, Ohio, died there. Both buried at the M. E. Cemetery at Stockholm.

In tracing this, my mother's family, in many of the states West and South, I have yet to find the name Strait, who could not find some connection with this Morris county family. They are scattered through the States of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Missouri, Tennessee, Kentucky, South Carolina and Georgia.

The Allen Family.

The following data given me many years ago by the late James Madison Allen at Newark, who had made many researches of the Allen family at Rockaway hold good to-day. I have added and corrected a few of the data that have come under my own researches, and from the collector of the Alling-Allen families of Connecticut and from the Allens at Chicago, Ill., and others. George P. Allen writes me from New Berlin, Fla., that he has failed to make any connections with the Roger Alling family, of New Haven, Ct., whose descendant, Samuel, came to Newark, N. J., and some of his descendants to Morris county. The name has many spellings, and the families quite numerous in Central New Jersey. Captain Job always wrote Allen, while some one engraved on his tombstone the name Allin.

Tradition says that Samuel Allen and sons, Ebenezer and Job, came from the north of Scotland, where they had been imprisoned for their religious opinions, and first landed at Amboy, N. J. Job came from thence, while still a young man, to Rockaway previous to 1730, and built a forge there at that date, known after as the "Job Allen Iron Works." They were located about two hundred yards above the present dam. The Sanitarium farm at Denville, comprising two or three hundred acres was owned by him at this time. His wife's name, according to the old deeds and papers, was Christiana, and they were probably not married earlier than 1735 or 6, as the first child Anna was born 1737. No mention was ever made among the old papers at Rockaway of his father Samuel or his brother Ebenezer, and it may have been possible that Christiana was his second wife. He was at this early date the founder and builder of the first iron industry at Rockaway, not very large in that day compared with the present, and may be said to have been the founder and builder of the first church at Rockaway, as some of the frame work was made as early as 1752. He was an early member of the Morristown Presbyterian church where some of his children were baptized, while the church at Rockaway was building. He was carpenter, miller and forgeman; constructed some of the first roads and bridges, and many of the first dwellings, when every nail used was hand-made.

Children: Anna, born Apr. 19, 1737, married Thomas Baldwin; Eunice, born Dec. 5, 1738, died unmarried, probably buried at Rockaway; Christiana, born June 1, 1742, married David Cory, of Rockaway, Apr. 23, 1758. He was born 1724, died Feb. 19, 1769. Both probably buried at Rockaway. Elizabeth, born July 10, 1742, baptized at Morristown, N. J., Sept. 18, 1743, married John Bigalow, of Rockaway. Both probably died at Rockaway. Deborah, born July 13, 1746, baptized Aug. 17, 1746, died in infancy. Lois or Loisa, born June 6, 1748, baptized July 10, 1748, married (1) Daniel Talmage, of Baskingridge, N. J., Dec. 21, 1766. He was killed at Lackawaxen, Pa., July 22, 1779, had three children. See Talmage family. She married (2) John Harriman and lived where David Lash now lives; had three children. See Harriman family. Job, born Aug. 27, 1750, baptized Aug. 14, 1751, married Mary Minturn or Minton, of Parsippany, N. J., Jan. 2, 1773. She was born Dec. 22, 1757, married (2) Stephen Jackson 1810 and died at the residence of her son Isaac at Newark, Apr. 21, 1826. Job, at the age of 17 when his father died, ran the farm, kept store, ran a forge and mill under the Jacksons, was captain in the militia service, was carpenter by trade, rebuilt and completed the Presbyterian church in 1794, died Mar. 16, 1798. All buried at Rockaway. Jane, born Dec. 12, 1751, married Benjamin Beach, died Apr. 16, 1780. He married (2) Mary (Serrin) Bigalow, and died May 17, 1827. See Beach family. Polly, Mary on the tombstone, born Dec. 29, 1758, married Thomas Osborn, removed to Parsippany, died May 5, 1801. Deacon Thomas Osborn was born Oct. 11, 1753, married (2) Hannah (Howell) Minton, who was born June 20, 1763, died Mar. 20, 1829. She was a daughter of Gidson Howell and wife Sarah Gordon, who lived at Littleton, N. J., and the widow of Lemuel Minton, by whom she had children: Henry, James, Sarah, Mary and Stephen. Deacon Osborn died July 27, 1818. All buried at Parsippany.

The Minturn or Minton family lived at Parsippany. The father came from north of England, the mother from Holland. Children: Nancy, John, Lemuel, William, James, Jacob, born 1725, died Oct. 11, 1804; Henry, Nathan, David, Peter, Rachel, Hannah, Sally and Mary, who married Capt. Job Allen.

She was born Feb. 14, 1782, died Mar. 21, 1862. He ran the farm at Den-ville at an early age, had a blacksmith shop and store at Rockaway from 1799 to 1814, at which date the family went to Ohio. John, married Charity, daughter of Abraham Kitchel, July 10, 1805, went to Sacketts Harbor, L. I. Maria, born 1788, married Anson Brown, of Denville, and emigrated to Ohio in 1814. Jacob, married Elizabeth Seguire, no other records. Lucy, born 1798, (1793 on tombstone) married Chileon Ford DeCamp Sept. 5, 1815, died Jan. 6, 1836. He was born July 9, 1793, died Feb. 27, 1876. Both buried at Rockaway.

Children of Job Allen (3) and wife Betsey: Job (4) born Nov, 27, 1801, at Denville, baptized at Rockaway Aug. 13, 1809, married Clarissa Thompson, of Parsippany, died 1868. Jackson. James Madison, born July 28, 1810, baptized June 30, 1811, married (1) Harriet, daughter of Peter Post and Elizabeth (Kanouse) Brown, of New Foundland, Dec. 1832. She was born Mar. 9, 1816, died Dec. 16, 1871, buried at Oak Ridge, N. J. (2) Hannah Susan Clark in 1873, died at Newark 1897, buried at Oak Ridge. He was largely interested in the iron and store business in several locations. Isaac Jackson, born Jan. 21, 1814, married Susan Brown, sister of Harriet. She was born May 13, 1821. The above children were all born at Rockaway. Maria Brown, born June 18, 1817, at Frederick, O., married James Richards, of Ohio. Clarissa Jackson, born July 5, 1819, married Daniel, brother of James Richards, above. Lucy DeCamp, born Sept, 14, 1821, married Joshua Davis, of Ohio.

This family, like many others once so prominent in the early enterprises of old Rockaway and Morris county, is now nearly extinct and the name continued in many of the Western States. The name Job continued to the fourth generation in this family, was perpetuated in the Talmage family, and also in the Hill family to the present day. See Talmage and Hill families.

The following of the Allen lines were probable descendants of Roger, of New Haven, and connected with the families of the present date, were also prominent in Morris county.

The Beaman Family.

The name originally spelled Beman, now modernized to Beaman and Beeman. Gamaliel Beman settled at Dorchester, Mass., in 1636, his descendants removed to Connecticut and later to Vermont. One Simon Beman, of Springfield, Mass., married Alice Young Oct. 15, 1654, and had sons, Josiah, (1) born Feb. 4, 1662; David, and perhaps others. There was a distribution of the estate of David, brother of Josiah, made in 1740, at Springfield, in which the property was divided among the representatives of his brother Josiah, then deceased, to John and Josiah, (2) Beaman, and three sisters. There was also a grant of land to Josiah Beaman, Jr., in Brookfield, Mass., of 60 acres in 1717.

Josiah (1) married Martha ————, who died Nov. 1691. (2) Lydia Warner Apr. 29, 1696, and had children: Simon, born Feb. 6. 1697; John, born July 19, 1699, moved to Brookfield, Mass., and Josiah (2) and three daughters.

After this date (1717) the name of Josiah Beaman (2) is lost in Massachusetts and is supposed to have gone West at a very early age and settled at or near Dover, N. J. and became interested in the iron business located there in 1720 by John Jackson and the Hurds. There is tradition that he came from Vermont, but as Vermont was not settled at this early date, it is not probable. This Josiah (2) had sons: David, perhaps the oldest; Josiah, a daughter Abigail, who married Joseph Edminster Feb. 19, 1747. She as his widow died Nov. 27, 1777, aged 50. Morristown Church Records show children: Hannah, baptized May 29, 1748; David, baptized Apr. 29, 1751; Ledia, baptized July 21, 1754, and Joseph, baptized Oct. 16, 1757.

David Beman was a member of the Presbyterian church at Morristown, N. J., before the building of the church at Rockaway, and was one of the founders and builders, and original members of the church at Rockaway. He owned a forge, sawmill and gristmill at Rockaway, and was builder of some of the first forges in this section, was forgeman, miller and carpenter. In the church he was sexton, elder, deacon and chorister.

David Beman, married (1) Mary Stansborrough, daughter of Samuel. She died 1780. (2) Anna (Jackson) Ayres, daughter of Gen. Joseph Jackson, and widow of Robert Ayres. She was born Aug. 9, 1746, died Mar. 21, 1816, buried by the side of her first husband. David Beman died 1802, buried at Rockaway, but no monument, grave unknown.

Children of David and Mary: Josiah, baptized Oct. 3, 1756; Samuel, baptized June 10, 1759; Lydia, married Thomas Conger, who was a blacksmith at Rockaway, and had children: Harriet, John, William, Phebe, Hannah and perhaps others. Joanna, baptized as adult Apr. 3, 1812, never married; Sarah, born July 13, 1765, married George Stickle, died June 14, 1836, buried at Rockaway. Ruhama, married (1) ———— Green, of Denville. (2) ———— Strong, who was lost at sea on a voyage to England about 1800. Children: Samuel, William, Susan, married ———— McElroy, of Denville, and Mary, who married (1) ———— Shoor. (2) Beaman Stickle as his second wife died at Aytelan, Wis., 1894.

Josiah Beaman, brother of David, was born 1732, married Huldah Winds, a sister of General William Winds, Sept. 11, 1760, died June 3, 1803. His wife was born 1729, died Aug. 15, 1792. Both buried at Rockaway. Children: Ahijah, baptized June 27, 1762. Mention is made in General Winds' will, dated the day before his death Oct. 11, 1789, of Abigail, Huldah and Susanna Beeman, daughters of Josiah Beeman. I give fifteen pounds each. It is probable that these were all the children living at that date of Josiah Beaman. The names Josiah and David are prominent in the family. The name is now not known, only through inter-marriage. Should any one know more of this family, once so prominent in the early enterprises, in church and Revolutionary service, I should be pleased to know so as to further preserve their records.

The Crane Family.

"To see ourselves as others see us" I have invited my correspondents to write what they knew of the Crane family. In the arrangement I have managed to get in a few words "edgeways," and like tombstone records, have recorded only the good deeds, and left out some of the bad. The name is spelled in many ways, so that nearly every one can have a choice, and about one half of the members usually prefer a change of name altogether. Some one, not related to the family has said that "the Cranes are noted for their frugality, honesty and piety," that means present company always excepted. All things change and we change with them.

The Cranes were originally from Cheshire county, England. The precise date will never be known as they may have worked out their road tax on the macadam road built there by the Romans before the third century. Under the similitude of a dream it may be taken for granted that they all dwelt in castles, of which there are many, some have been torn down and a new castle built in their place.

Tradition says they were all great warriors and that each community was well blessed with generals, colonels majors and captains, and that each were tagged with a coat of arms. These armorial bearings may have originated by the way that each one made "his mark" with a pointed stick and pokeberry juice, it is not advisable to give any theory upon this subject. One of our enterprising relatives has traced the family back from General Josiah Crane for thirteen generations, without reaching the end or touching bottom. I will commence where he left off and be content with eleven generations.

General Josiah Crane was in the service of King James and for his services was rewarded with a coat of arms and a goodly estate. It is said that some of his descendants went to the north of Ireland, some to Germany and later Jasper, probably Stephen and Phebe, to America.

Authorities differ as to the date or location. Jasper may have settled at Shawmit, now Boston, Mass., as early as 1630, and taken a part in the first settlement of New Haven, Conn., by overland route April 9, 1638. He may have returned to Boston and returned to England, and sailed direct from London with his family in ship Arbella, which left London Apr. 26, 1639, and was the first ship to enter the harbor at New Haven.

We learn of Jasper in Boston June 21, 1640, as agent for Mr. Roe, of London, regarding house lot and three acres of land, lying in Boston, wherein William Herricke now dwelleth. This theory would prove that he may have been in Boston as an agent for a London Company previous to this date. As surveyor and land agent it is quite probable that he dealt largely in real estate and building lots. He signed the first agreement at a general meeting at Mr. Newman's barn in New Haven, June 4, 1639, and took the oath of fidelity with Canfield, Pennington, Eaton and others. His house lot number 49, drawn Feb. 6, 1607, was located on what is now Elm street, corner of Orange street, occupied by the church of St. Thomas. Delivered had number 40, and John number 62. At the organization of government of the colony, he was "freed from watching and traynung in his own turn, because of his weakness, but to find some one for his turn." He was a member of the General Court with Robert Treat, and magistrate many years in the colony. Was interested in a bog ore furnace at East Haven in 1651, removed to Branford, seven miles east of New Haven, in 1652, was deputy magistrate and magistrate in 1658 at Branford. In 1664 was commissioner to administer oath of allegiance to all the freemen of New Haven after the union with the Connecticut colony. In 1665 he was appointed one of the committee of safety to protect the colony against DeRuyter, the Dutch admiral, who was cruising in the sound threatening the colony. Among other honors he had fifth seat in the meeting house. Notwithstanding the disability of the weakness that prevented Jasper Crane from "watching and traynung" in his own person he seems to have lived in high authority in the midst of affairs in stirring times. A power in the colonial wilderness, it was as a Moses that he led the twenty-three families of Branford to the canaan of the Passaic lands, captain over these exiles even as Robert Treat was captain over the forty-one families of Milford.

The Passaic settlement first bore the name of Milford, but was changed to Newark at the suggestion of the beloved pastor of the church at Branford. The home lot that fell to Jasper Crane at Newark was directly north of the Essex county court house, and is now the site of St. Paul's Episcopal church. The meeting house was nearby, and surrounded by a palisade, and in the cupola a guard of settlers kept watch for hostile Indians, while the worship was in progress.

The date of the birth of Jasper Crane is quite uncertain, authorities give dates 1590, 1605, 1610. It is quite probable that he was twice married, and that Stephen, born about 1630 was of the first marriage. His will dated at Newark 1678, names wife Alice, who probably died before his death in 1682, was proved 1681. One authority gives Stephen, who settled at Elizabeth, as born 1640. Some conjecture that this Stephen was a brother of Jasper and that Phebe, who married Canfield, was a sister. Traditionally we can have Stephen as a brother and as a son; perhaps there were two Stephens.

We give the tradition of Israel Crane a great-great grandson of Stephen, of Elizabeth Town. "About 1625 A. D. thirty years before Elizabeth Town, N. J., was settled, during the persecutions of the Puritans in England under Queen Elizabeth, the ancestor of the Crane family came to America. His name was Stephen. The ship in which he came is supposed to have sailed from the west of England, favored by embarkation by a fog, which allowed escape in case of pursuit. When the fog passed away the ship was out of sight of land. It is said to have sunk at Amboy, N. J., but all on board were saved. Stephen Crane and his fellow voyagers settled Elizabeth Town, named for Queen Elizabeth, who confirmed the purchase of lands from the Indians."

From what I have before stated it is hard to accuse any of the Crane family with drawing the long bow, it may have been attributed to his mother's relation. 1625 and 30 make 1655, ten years before Elizabeth Town was settled. Sailing from the west of England would give a Cheshire county location. If the ship sunk at Amboy in 1625, the name was not known at that time. If they then settled at Elizabeth Town at that time, the settlement must have been abandoned forty years. We presume this Stephen to have been at least twenty-five years of age when he left England. Nathaniel, his reputed son, was born 1680, which is not probable. This Stephen is not mentioned in the New England settlements, but there were many others there. If he died after 1710 he would have been over 110 years of age.

The Cranes are not noted for longevity and seldom reach the 80th year They are generally "grown up" at fourteen and fifteen, sow a small patch of wild oats, marry at 16, 18 and 20 and settle down to quiet life and piety. It is possible to crowd four and five generations in a century. They become prematurely old at 40 and 50, and it is recorded of some families who have married, raised large families, and died at 25 and 30. In the early settlements early marriages were encouraged, and the hardships and privations encountered, made them old men and women at 40 and 50.

This Stephen who settled at Elizabeth Town in 1665, tradition says married a Danish or Welch woman with red hair, and blue eyes, a blonde. These descendants of Stephen are known to belong to that particular Crane family, while the Newark settlers are not above the ordinary statue, have very dark hair, dark hazel eyes and decidedly brunette. The hair turning gray in early life, and almost white at middle age. So we shall claim the Elizabeth Town settler as the son of Jasper. The children owned adjoining lands between Elizabeth Town and Newark.

I have thus far given data of Jasper Crane, his children and grandchildren, as many of them are not known, as arranged here. In forming a new line through Edmond, the son of John, the son of John, the son Jasper, it will be necessary to trace entirely new lines, and not before written. A part of these were given me by Mr. Job Baldwin, of Whippany, an eccentric character, who frequently visited my father many years ago. He was born Dec. 23, 1782, died at Whippany Dec. 9, 1872, was well acquainted with the family history of the Cranes and Baldwins, long before Conger's notes of Newark families were written.

He was a soldier in the Revolution, and later a captain in State troops. Children: Shadrack, Abigail, Silas, Ann, Ann Kimball (2) and Nancy.

John, born Jan. 24, 1749, according to the Baldwin version, married in early life, was in service of the Revolution, wounded so that he was disabled in life. He removed from Whippany with his son John between Stockhol and Canisteer, N. J., to be cared for by the family of Wilhelm Hulme in a log house about two hundred yards north-east of the present John Crane house which was built about 1790 or 95. He died there about 1790, and was probably buried at Canisteer. He had one other son, David, who died young, and three daughters, who were reared among the Baldwin families at Whippany. They all married in early life; names unknown.

Benonie, born June 27, 1761. No other records.

Lands in those days were settled a long time before they were "taken up" by owners. Two or three houses were built upon the Crane premises before it was surveyed and deeded to John Crane, Jr. The deed dated Apr. 20, 1802, beginning at a red oak tree, distant two chain and forty links, from a rock on a course South, seventy-two degrees West from John Crane's house. The tract contained 106 acres, and had been "settled" and improvements made by this party for over twenty years and by others perhaps fifty years previous.

John Crane, Jr., was born before 1770, the precise date is not known, at Whippany, built the house as mentioned above, and married 1797 Sophia Myres, daughter of Jacob and wife Abby, who settled at Canisteer during the Revolution. She was born 1771, died Jan. 29, 1840, buried at Canisteer. John Crane was chosen as a class leader by the Methodist society, being a man of great piety. He went from home in the early morning of July 29, 1820, in search of his cows and never returned. Research was made for the missing man, but never found.

Jacob Myres and wife Abby were of German descent. Children: Sophia, married John Crane as above; Abraham, John, Margaret, Mary, Katy, Abby and Hannah.

The Cranes and Cards are so united by marriage in this family that it is quite necessary to bring up another line of Revolutionary ancestors, to keep up the fighting record of the writer. Peter or John Card (authorities differ as to the name) came with Col. John Seward to Sussex county in 1751 from near Chester in Morris county, and it is probable that they came with the Seward family from Long Island, as they were united, and five generations of the Card family have lived on the Seward estate and now own a part of the original tract.

This Peter Card did service in the Revolution, and many are the anecdotes handed down. He had three children now known, and there may have been others. Peter, his son, was born Nov. 10, 1763, was boy of all work at the Seward homestead and in service on special occasions. He married, Nov. 12. 1792, Phebe Angle or Angel as was then written, a daughter of John Angle, who was killed in the Revolution. He died in the old Seward homestead Feb. 14, 1818. John Angle married Martha Burwell, his father, John, married Mary Burwell. they were among the early settlers at Newark. She died 1773 aged 101 years, and when a girl lived in one of the first three blockhouses built at Newark for the protection of the settlers against the Indians, and it is related that her father was the first to introduce the English bull dogs in the settlement.

The Cranes were among the earliest aggressors in the strike for civil liberty in 1745, were represented in the colonial wars, and in all the wars for independence, freedom and right that have occurred in our Republic, and, that the first key note may not be forgotten, noted for frugality, honesty and piety.

The Cooper Family.

Some years ago a brief sketch of the Cooper family was written, which afterward appeared in pamphlet form in 1894. Considerable new material has been found, and many corrections have been made.

They came originally from Holland, and settled at Haverstraw, N. Y. John, Peter, James and Ichabod, and perhaps others were of this family.

John Cooper came to Denville, N. J., where he married Lydia Beach, a daughter of Stephen. She married (2) Eliakim Anderson, of Denville. Eliakim married (1) Rachel Haden, daughter of William, who built in 1767, the house known as the "Hopler house" in Franklin, N. J. Rachel married (1) David Moore as second wife and had children: Hannah, who married William Cooper; Stephen, who married Rhoda Dickerson, and Nancy, who married Nathaniel Dickerson, son of Daniel. Of these John Cooper, Stephen Beach, William Haden, David Moore, Stephen Moore, Nathaniel and Daniel Dickerson served in Revolution.

The Dickerson Family.

History of Morris County, page 356, has "Daniel Dickerson, the grandfather of Stephen Dickerson, of Denville, N. J., was a Revolutionary soldier. He lived on the Stephen Dickerson farm, now owned by the Denville Camp Meeting Association, and died in 1830, aged 85 or 86. He was also a soldier in the French War. Besides operating his farm, he was a bloomer for John Jacob Faesch at Old Boonton."

Morristown Presbyterian Church Records, page 60, have Daniel Dickerson died Mar. 23, 1826, aged 86." There are some of the family that hold to the tradition that this Daniel was a brother of Peter, who was born at Southhold, L. I., 1724, died May 10, 1780, whose monument at Morristown, N. J., has that he "removed to Morris County, New Jersey, with his three brothers: Thomas, Joshua and Daniel, and one sister, Elizabeth, about the year 1745." These sons of Thomas, the son of Philomon, who came from England to Southhold in 1643, have been traced and no connection is found with the Daniel, of Denville.

In the "Early Germans of New Jersey," by Rev. T. F. Chambers, an error was written in connection the genealogies of this Dickerson family. He says, under date of Oct. 30, 1900, "That in my book, The 'Early Germans of New Jersey', the information concerning Daniel whose will, dated, Hanover, 13 Jan., 1826, was probated Apr. 21, is not correct, as he is not the son of Daniel, whose will, dated Roxbury, 30 April, 1778, was probated Sept. 9, 1796, but of some parentage not as yet discovered."

The will of Daniel, of Roxbury, N. J., mentions sons: Abraham, Daniel, Nathaniel, and daughters: Abigail, Rebecca and Elizabeth. Abraham gets ninety acres, Daniel gets seventy acres, Nathaniel gets 110 acres, and the personal property was divided among the three daughters.

The will of Daniel Dickerson dated

Jan. 13, 1826, mentions sons: Nathaniel, David and Thomas (deceased), daughters: Phebe, wife of Ephriam Howard; Mary, wife of William Roff; also children of Rhoda, who was the wife of Stephen Moore (deceased); also grandchildren, children of Thomas (deceased), that is: Daniel, William, John, Mahlon, Silas, Stephen, Chillion, Jane and Josiah. Also mentions 105 acres that he bought of Nicholas Commesaw.

At the present writing, from the researches that have been made, in relation to the parentage of this Daniel Dickerson, of Denville, I will adopt the story as related by the late David Cooper, whose acquaintance with the family dated back beyond the death of Daniel, and whose memory of old time traditions were remakable at his advanced age.

The father of Daniel Dickerson, of Denville, name unknown, was a sea captain, lived at Elizabethport, N. J., owned a small trading vessel and was lost at sea. He had one son, Daniel, and one daughter, name unknown. He owned lands at Basking Ridge, N. J., which came in possession of his daughter, who married, name unknown, and at Speedwell, near Morristown, N. J., which came in possession of his son Daniel. His wife remarried, name unknown, and retained the home at Elizabethport.

Tradition has it that Daniel traded his lands at Speedwell for 105 acres with Nicholas Commesaw, now where Camp Tabor, N. J., is, built a house, now torn down, near the spring, a large stone in the chimney of the house was marked D. D. 1760. Morristown records have it that this Nicholas Commesaw died of old age Nov. 12, 1806, aged 90. There is tradition that each claimed they were cheated in the trade of these lands, but that has nothing to do with our history. Daniel added much lands to his home farm, and at one time owned many hundred acres of adjoining lands.

Daniel Dickerson was born about or before 1740, probably at Elizabethport, married at an early age Phebe Genung. No records of marriage or connection of church at Morristown. He was assessed for the salary of Rev. Mr. Everitt, of Rockaway church, Sept. 2, 1779, and again in 1781. His wife died May 1821, (King's Record). He died Mar. 13, 1826. Both probably buried at Rockaway, but no monumental record.

Children of Daniel and Phebe Genung) Dickerson: there is a record of baptism, May 1, 1757, of Phebe, Dan. Dickin's wife of child Mary, which may have been a contraction of Dickerson, as old records were not particular in the spelling of names. There are no other records of child Mary; perhaps she died young. Nathaniel must have been born in 1758, as he served in the Revolution. He married Nancy Moore, daughter of David Moore and Rachel Haden. David Moore was a Revolutionary soldier and lived about one-half mile northeast of the residence of J. P. Crayon, at Franklin, N. J., near a spring. He married (1) Bathia Cutler, daughter of Uriah, Mar. 30, 1769, and had children: Rachel, born Apr. 29, 1771; Phebe, born Aug. 10, 1772; married (2) Rachel Haden, daughter of William, Sept. 4, 1777. William Haden built the present Hoppler house at Franklin, in 1767. David Moore had children: Hannah, born 1778, married William Cooper; Stephen married Rhoda, daughter of Daniel Dickerson, and Nancy, who married Nathaniel Dickerson. Nathaniel Dickerson, after the Revolution, built and lived in a house about 150 yards north of J. P. Crayon's at Franklin, removed to Vermont about 1830. David, no records of birth, marriage or death. There is a record by Dr. King of marriage, David Dickerson and ———— Bailey Feb. 11, 1811. May or may not have been a second marriage of this David, as David is mentioned in will as living in 1826. Thomas, born Sept. 6, 1763, married Sarah Hall, daughter of Capt. Josiah Hall, of Denville, Jan. 8, 1783, died July 29, 1821. She died June 16, 1817. Both buried at Rockaway. Capt. Josiah Hall was a son of Tobias Hall, and lived nearly one-fourth of a mile opposite Denville depot. He died Aug. 11, 1870. Had two daughters: Sarah and Eunice, and two sons: Seth and Noah. His widow died some years after, and in applying for a pension, sent the muster roll of Capt. Josiah Hall to the department at Washington. Aaron, born 1768, married Eunice Hall, daughter of Capt. Josiah, Mar. 3, 1791, died Nov. 1827. No children. Place of burial unknown. Phebe, married Ephriam Howard Jan. 20, 1784. Hayward, in Morristown Records, probable son of Ephriam Howard, who died July 27, 1785, aged 46, and wife Sarah, who had children: Joseph, Ephriam and Caleb, baptized July 25, 1762.

Mary, married William Roff, mentioned in will as living in 1826.

Rhoda, married Stephen Moore, a Revolutionary soldier, son of David, went with his brother-in-law, Nathaniel Dickerson, to Vermont about 1830. Rhoda is mentioned in will, dated 1826, as deceased. Children, but not named. These children may not be named in order of birth.

J., giving the military record of Daniel Dickerson, and one from Frederick A. Canfield, of Dover, N. J., who has very recently in his researches of the Dickerson family, discovered the probable ancestor of Daniel, of Denville, in the line of Thomas, one of the four brothers who came from Southold L. I., and settled in Morris county.

It is certified, that the records of this office show that Daniel Dickerson served as a private in the Eastern Battalion, Morris County, New Jersey Militia; sergeant, Captain Isaac Hasley's Company, same Battalion; ensign, Captain Josiah Hall's Company, same Battalion; sergeant, Captain Josiah Hall's Company, same Battalion, 1781, during the Revolutionary War.

ADJ. GEN. OLIPHANT.

The Denville branch of the Dickerson family descended from Daniel Dickerson, who was born in 1740 and died 1826, aged 86 years. If the claims of of kinship that seem to have existed between the Denville family and the Berkshire Valley family, are satisfied, this Daniel, of Denville, must have been a son of one of the four brothers: Daniel, Thomas, Joshua and Peter, that came from Southold, L. I., to Morris county, N. J., about the year 1745.

I have been able to get the names of the children of all these brothers excepting those of Thomas. Thomas married Sarah Wager June 7, 1737, in Southold. His oldest son was named Thomas, another son was Charles who was born 1745. We do not know the names of his other children, but I feel satisfied that Daniel, of Denville, was another son and John, of Mendham, N. J., was probably another.

On December 1, 1770, Thomas Dickerson acquired an interest in some land near Succasunna. On the 20th of March 1773, Thomas Dickerson (son and heir-in-law of Thomas Dickerson, deceased,) conveyed his interest in a part of this land to Benjamin Hart. This fixes the date of death of Thomas about 1772. This Thomas was elected overseer of roads in Roxbury township in 1752.

I can see no good reason for not assigning the Denville family to the line of Thomas. There is no other place for them, that will satisfy the conditions that are known to have existed. Daniel, of Denville, has been confounded with Daniel, of Roxbury township, but as each has his own, and distinct line of descendants, there is no need of any confusion.

FRED A. CANFIELD.

This will place the Puriton Philomon Dickerson, who came from England to the Massachusetts colony 1638, at Southold 1643 He had two sons: Thomas and Peter. Thomas had four sons, who came to Morris county as above stated. This spoils a bit of romance, but we are glad to have facts.

The Fichter Family.

The story of the Fichter family may not be of as much interest in the great outside world as in the former iron manufacturing and mining towns and villages in the immediate vicinity of Rockaway. But few of the name are beyond the limits of Morris county.

Frederick Fichter was born in the small iron manufacturing town of Elscoe, Germany, near the border line of France. His father was Nicholas and his mother Rosina. It was here he learned his trade and married at an early age. He and his wife Mary Ann soon after emigrated to America and landed in New York City about 1773. Also a sister, who married Baltus Good and removed to Pennsylvania.

John Jacob Faesch, who was in search of skilled iron workers for the furnace at Mt. Hope, N. J., went to New York and found, as it proved afterward, the very man he wanted in Fichter. They came with Faesch to Mt. Hope and Fichter was placed in charge of the furnace. Here they lived happily for a time, until his wife one day went to the spring to get a pail of water and found a large snake nearby, which so entirely upset her nervous system that she declared she would no longer live in the land of snakes, hence they removed to Rockaway. while Fichter continued to work at Mt. Hope. The severe nervous shock proved too much for her delicate nerves, she was taken soon after from the effects with fever, died and was buried at Rockaway. This event so disheartened Fichter that he sold out his household belongings, and resolved to go back to Germany. Faesch induced him by an advance in his wages to stay three months until he could find some one to take his place at the furnace. He consented, at the end of the three months another advance in wages induced him to stay for another three months. In the meantime he attended a party with other Germans at Bloomingdale, N J. It was here that he first saw Mary Witty, but she could not or would not talk German to an entire stranger. The trip was made on horseback, the custom of that day. The charms of Mary Witty had induced him to make another trip soon after, when he chanced to meet Mary attending a toll gate, her father was gate keeper, and found that she could talk German to the satisfaction that another trip to the toll gate was soon made and she consented to become his wife, so that within a year from the death of his first wife arrangements were made and they were married in the parlor of the Faesch mansion at Mt. Hope, where a large number of the first families were invited. This event took place in 1788, as near as the records can be accountable. After a few months she complained that she had nothing to do and begged that a flax wheel and fifty pounds of flax should be purchased, after which in due time, Ellenor Ellenor was presented to them and she did not have to make another complaint of nothing to do. On the first day of June 1792, John came to the household at Mt. Hope, when soon after they removed to Old Boonton, N. J., in the iron interest of Faesch, where Catharine Sophia made her appearance. They continued to live in Old Boonton when Gabriel came to that town Nov. 25, 1796. Then followed William in 1799, next Elizabeth Margaret, Mary Ann, named for his first wife June 22, 1804; Frederick, named for himself; then Adelia, when they removed to Berkshire Valley, N. J., here came Eliza and Jacob Losey. They lived on the Lot Berry farm between Berkshire Valley and Lower Longwood, N. J. They removed to Upper Longwood where Frederick Fichter died about 1850 aged about 90 years, he was buried by the side of his first wife Mary Ann at Rockaway. As no monument marks the spot the precise location has been forgotten. His wife went to live with her son William at Russia, near Milton, N. J., where he owned a forge and saw mill, she died there Nov. 5, 1857, aged 85 years, and was buried at Oak Ridge (N. J.) Cemetery. The Gordon Family.

A few preliminaries are necessary before writing upon the Gordon family. The name is spelled in many ways in the old records. From the old family Bible of David Gordon, better known as the "old sexton" of Rockaway, the following entry is made—"Capt. Wm. Gordon, Decest, Apr. 15th, 1777. In the forty-first year of his age." Also, "William Gordon, son Joshua and Martha Gordon." The remaining record obliterated. Other records have "Oct. 20, 1777. Letters of administration on estate of Joshua Gordon, deceased, intestate, granted to Thomas Kinney." Also, "9 February 1778, Letters of admn. on estate of Capt. Wm. Gordon, deceased, intestate, granted to Thomas Kinney." Also, "21 December 1786, Letters of Admn. on estate of Jeremiah Gordon, of Morris Co. deceased, intestate, granted to Timothy Canfield."

The wife of William Gordon was Deborah (Kinney) Canfield. She was widow of David Canfield, who died 1756, and a probable sister of Thom a Kinney above. David Canfield had children: Samuel, Timothy, Phebe, Henry, David and Experience.

Joshua Gordon was quartermaster in the Revolution, and had: William, perhaps John, who lived in the parish of Rockaway, and was assessed in 1792 for eighty-two acres of land for the salary of Rev. J. J. Carle, and died May 1, 1813, and buried at Rockaway, and Charles, born 1775, died 1815, married two sisters, Hannah and Elizabeth Perkins, and Jeremiah.

A certified copy from the records at Trenton have, "It is certified, that the records of this office show that Joshua Gordon was in commission as quartermaster of Colonel Ephriam Martin's Battalion; Brigadier General Nathaniel Heard's Brigade; New Jersey State Troops, July 6, 1776, during the Revolutionary War."

Also, "It is certified, that the records of this office, show that, William Gordon, was in commission as second lieutenant of Captain John Ross' Company, Third Battalion, First Establishment, New Jersey Continental line, March 5, 1776; promoted First Lieutenant, July 19, 1776. This battalion served in the expedition to Canada and took an active part in the operations before Quebec in May and June 1776. He was commissioned captain in Third Battalion, second establishment, New Jersey Continental line, Nov. 29, 1776, and died in service in April 1777, during the Revolutionary War."

Adj. Gen. Stryker has also William Gordon, a minute man of Monmouth County Militia, also another a minute man in the Middlesex Militia, and also a William Gorden, who served as a private in the Fourth Company, Captain John Burrowes commanding, Colonel Oliver Spencer's Regiment, Continental Army, served in the Indian Campaign against the Six Nations in Western Pennsylvania from May to November, 1779, also served as a private in Captain Jonathan Holmes' Company, Second Regiment, New Jersey Continental line, during the Revolutionary War. There is tradition that William Gordon, the father of the "old sexton," was buried during his time, opposite the monument to the "old sexton," and that his son William was buried in the same plot of David Gordon. These records are very conflicting, who can give correct?

The following are certified records at Trenton: "It is certified, that the records of this office show that David Gordon served as a private in the Eastern Battalion, Morris County, New Jersey, Militia; also as a private in the New Jersey State Troops; also private in the First Battalion, Second Establishment: New Jersey Continental Line, and in the Sixth Company commanded by Captain Jeremiah Ballard, Third Battalion, Second Establishment; served in the Indian Campaign against the six nations in Western Pennsylvania from May to November, 1779; private in Captain Alexander Mitchell's Company, First Regiment; detailed to Colonel Francis Barber's New Jersey Light Infantry Battalion, and served in the Virginia Campaign from April to October, 1781; took part in the seige of Yorktown, and was present in the battle of Yorktown and surrender of Lord Cornwallis, October 19, 1871,—during the Revolutionary War." The following are the records from the War Department at Washington, D. C., "The records of this office show that David Gordon enlisted July 24, 1777, as a private in Captain Jeremiah Ballard's Company, Third New Jersey Regiment, commanded by Colonel Elias Dayton, Revolutionary War to serve three years. His name appears on the rolls from June 1777, to August 1780, without additional data." The records also show that, "David Gordon served as a private in the 5th company of foot, first New Jersey regiment, commanded by Colonel Mathias Ogden, Revolutionary War. He enlisted, date not shown, to serve during the war. His name appears on the rolls for January, 1781, to February, 1783, without additional data." The records further show that, "David Gordon enlisted, date not stated, as a private in Captain Jonathan Dayton's Company, New Jersey regiment, commanded by Colonel Mathew Ogden, Revolutionary War, to serve during the war. He joined March 1, 1783, and his name is borne on the rolls for March and April, without additional data."

As David Gordon was born Oct. 23, 1759, monumental record Sept. 22, it will show that he enlisted before he was 18 years of age, and continued in the service nearly six years. His father, William, was 40 years of age, and his grandfather, Joshua, in the 60's. David Gordon died July 23, 1852, the funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Barnabas King from text, 1 Peter 4th chapter 7th verse.

Joshua Gordon may have had a brother William, as the first mortgage on record at Morristown, N. J., is as follows: "An abstract of mortgage from William Gordon and Jemima his wife, of Hanover, in the County of Morris, and Province of New Jersey, to David Ogden, of Newark, in the County of Essex, and province aforesaid. Dated the 5th July, 1765, of all that tract of land, situate lying and being at Hanover, in the County of Morris aforesaid, containing eighty-one acres and seventy-three perches, and is bounded northerly and easterly, partly by the land of Benjamin Howell, and partly by the land of Zachariah Baldwin deceased, and southerly and easterly by land of Samuel Parrit, being the plantation whereon the said William Gordon now lives and by him purchased of Samuel Parrit, for the sum of one thousand and seventy-seven pounds and ten shillings current money of New Jersey at eight shillings the ounce to be paid on the twenty-first day of May next, expiring the date of said mortgage with lawful interest for same.

Recorded the 8th day of August, 1765,
by me—A. MOORE, D. Clerk."

From this and other records it will show that this Gordon family was early located in Morris county, the exact location of Joshua and William is not known, but it is probable at or near Rockaway.

David Gordon, born 1759, enlisted July 24, 1777, and served in the Revolutionary War nearly six years, as the records show, married while on furlough Mar. 17, 1780, Nancy Southard, a daughter of Timothy, Jr., who lived at or near Rockaway. While on a business trip to Baltimore, Md., to introduce a method of extracting iron from cinder refuse of the forges, was taken sick, returned to New York, called at a hotel and requested a room to rest, and was told they had none for a drunken man, he acted so strangely, he insisted that he was a sick man, and inquired for Ithamer Ayres, who was sent for and removed to his house where he died. He was buried at Rockaway near his father, David, but there is no monumental record of the same. Susannah, born Oct. 10, 1785, married Ithamer Ayres, lived at New York and was buried at Brooklin. No records of children. Amy, born Sept. 25, 1787, married (1) Timothy Losey, Dec. 19, 1807, lived at Upper Longwood; (2) —— ——— Tuttle, probably buried at Berkshire Valley. No other records. In some of the old Rockaway records mention is made of one Charles Gordon, a possible resident of Rockaway, and a probable brother or son of Captain William Gordon. He was born 1775, died 1815. The marriage records at Morristown County Clerks Office, have his marriage to Hannah Perkins May 10, 1795, by Ebenezer Coe, J. P., and a marriage (2) to Elizabeth Perkins, probably sisters, Mar. 2, 1799, by Rev. John J. Carle, of Rockaway. He had children: Lewis, born Dec. 14, 1791, who married Hannah Gard, daughter of Captain Daniel, and died Aug. 1876; Isaac, who lived near Boonton, was murdered and robbed by George Ackers or Ackerman, who was hung for the murder at Morristown about forty years ago. Isaac had a son Samuel in the war of '61-5, and died near Boonton July 1900. Eliza, married John Harvey; Charles, Deborah, married Michael Dolen; Sarah, married John Mills; Stephen, Amanda, married John Thorn; Hannah, married Godfrey Mann.

Lewis and Hannah (Gard) Gordon lived at or near Berkshire Valley, and had children: William A., born Mar. 26, 1820, married Amy C. Dickerson, died Apr. 1, 1861. David Gordon, or Gauden, a probable brother of Joshua, born about 1724, and died Feb. 7, 1790, was resident at Rockaway, and mentioned in the old records. He married (1) Hopeful Wood July 27, 1747; (2) Elizabeth Stansborrough, Apr. 8, 1753, had children baptized at Morristown: Mary, Samuel, Jeremiah, Hopestill, John, Providence, William, Mary, Joseph, David, Robard and Seth. He was resident at Rockaway after 1780.

Since writing the above, I have copied the following facts taken from the original Bible Records of Timothy Southard, now in possession of Frederick Gordon, of Boonton. This important record will correct some statements found in the Southard and Palmer families, and is further connected with the Gordon family. The records were formerly held by David Gordon, the "old sexton."

Timothy Southard, born Oct. 6, 1736, married Susanna Sworden May 16, 1762. Tradition has that Timothy Southard served in the Revolutionary War, and died from the effects of service Jan. 31, 1777. At the bottom of said record, in another hand writing, is Timothy Southard died Jan. 31, (date of year torn), aged 40 years, 3 months and 25 days, this would make date of death as above.

Susanna Randal died Oct. 16, 1796, aged 55 years. She was born Apr. 23, 1741, and married second John Randal, of Denville. Susanna Sworden had a sister Sarah, who married Stephen Beach and lived opposite Denville depot. All are probably buried at Rockaway, but no records of same. Children: Anne, (also called Nancy), born May 4, 1763. She married David Gordon, died

Feb. 1859, aged 89 years. Buried at Rockaway. Mary, born Mar. 27, 1795. No other records. Married but name unknown. Amy, born Aug. 20, 1769, married Moses Hopping, who lived at and owned Weldon, and afterwards Hope well, was forgeman, and owned forges there. Date of death and place of burial unknown. Phebe, born Oct. 2, 1772, married William Mitchel. He was a tailor by trade, lived at Franklin, and removed to Ohio. No other records. Neomi, born, (name of month torn), 5, 1775, married Silas Palmer, lived at Rockaway, gives date of birth that of Phebe, Oct. 2, 1772, which is an error. Children—see Palmer family. Silas, date of birth wholly torn, probably about 1777. Silas was married, name unknown. He had a son Timothy, who taught school many years, was a lawyer and died near Lake Hopatcong, N. J. A daughter Mary married Levi Harvey. Silas lived near Rockaway and was burned to death by falling in a charcoal pit, which he was attending.

Of the children of David Canfield, who married Deborah, a sister of Thomas Kinney, Samuel is said to have served in the Revolutionary War; Timothy, lived and died near Cranberry Pond, now Silver Lake, N. J.; Phebe, married, name unknown, and lived at Hibernia, N. J.; Henry, no records; David, married and lived at Franklin, where Joseph Zeek now lives, and Experience, called "Peeney" never married, lived with her brother David. Both buried at Rockaway, but no records of burial.

The Thomas Kinney above mentioned was born 1731, died Apr. 3, 1793, married Elizabeth Gordon, a probable daughter of Joshua, was born 1736, died Apr. 23, 1789. He had children baptized at Morristown: John and Jabish, June 22, 1760; Abraham, Sept 26, 1762.

The Harriman Family.

It may be well to mention some of the peculiarities of autography and pronunciation of our early settlers. They were a plain people, without time or inclination to show great learning, and generally made themselves comfortable and happy with the use of five hundred well chosen words of the English language. Words of three or more syllables were frequently contracted to two in proper names, with accent on the first. This Harriman or Herriman was reduced to Herman, and occasionally written so. Harrison to Hars'n, Casterline to Catlin, Shawanguck to Shongum, Elizabethtown to 'Lisbeth, New York to York. Custom "nick-named" the given-names of persons, and sometimes wholly changed them. The final e and the abominable final k were seldom used in writing which probably gave Webster the American idea.

John Harriman was a well-to-do inn keeper in New Haven, Ct., in 1646. He had wife Elizabeth. His son John was baptised at New Haven Jan. 24, 1647, attended Harvard College, married Hannah Bryan, a daughter of Richard, of Milford. Ct., Nov. 20, 1672. She was born 1654. He was a settled pastor of the first Presbyterian church at Elizabethtown, N. J., Oct. 1, 1687. He was given a land grant of one hundred acres by the Proprietors Feb. 20, 1693.

Children: John, born 1674, married Abigail Whitehead, daughter of Isaac, some authorities say of Morristown, N. J., others of Elizabethtown. Isaac Whitehead and wife Mary Brown had children born at New Haven: Susanna, Isaac, Mary, Sarah, Samuel, Joseph, Grace, removed to Elizabethtown 1664 and had Nathaniel and Abigail, who married John Harriman. The Whitehead family probably removed to Morris county at a later date. John and Abigail had children: David, who was at Yale College in 1711; Hannah, born 1693, married John Hendricks, buried at Elizabeth Mar. 15, 1732; Abigail, married John Clark. John Harriman made will Feb. 17, whice was probated Mar. 22, 1730.

The name Denville was not known at this date, being named about the time of the Revolution from John Den, who settled near the Den Brook where it unites with the Rockaway River. Joseph died 1758, and was probably buried at the "Harriman burying-ground;" Stephen, was born 1689. Of the children of Rev. John Harriman, Joseph is perhaps the only one of the family who settled at Rockaway.

Children of Joseph, (no record of wife's name): John, married Miriam Blockman, probably of Rockaway; Hannah, married Noah Beach, son of Benjamin, resident of Hanover, N. Among the near neighbors of the Harrimans, Allens and Kitchels in Revolutionary times was one Andrew Hubbard, who came with his wife and two children from Germany and settled near Hibernia previous to the Revolution. He was a smelter by trade. There is a tradition that the soldiers came and blindfolded him, took him away where he worked six monthsin a cave, molding bullets for the army. His family was well cared for, but he was not allowed to communicate with them, at the end of six months he was brought home, blindfolded, and well paid for his services. Where was the cave in the mountains?

The Hill Family.

Family tradition has it that Peter Hill came from Germany and first settled in Vermont, where he married Anne Margaret, or Marguerite, name unknown. She was of French descent from the early settlers of Vermont. The family, as nearly all the children were born in Vermont, came to New Jersey and settled about one mile north of Morris Plains, on what is now known as Sires farm, in 1768, if not previous to that date. Both were received by letter at the Presbyterian church at Morristown, July 30, 1789, at which time their youngest child, Abigail, was baptized. She was born probably in Morris Plains Apr. 8, 1769. No further records of Abigail. Peter Hill was born in Germany 1721, date of marriage in Vermont unknown. Died at Morris Plains of asthma Jan. 18, 1781. His wife was born 1730, died Jan. 18, 1782, of fever, just five years previous to the death of her husband; buried at Morristown.

Peter, perhaps the oldest son, when a young man worked at Mt. Hope, as one of the liveried attendants to John Jacob Faesch, Esq. On one occasion, it is related, that while assisting Faesch to mount his horse, the horse shied and Faesch fell to the ground. Faesch being a lame man, always carried his heavy gold mounted cane with him, and not having the temper of an angel, after what had happened, struck young Peter over the head with his cane—Peter's Dutch and French were both up, and the aristocratic Faesch received a very severe chastisement from the hands of Peter. Peter afterwards married Charity Badgley Apr. 16, 1781. Had children: Rachel, born June 4, 1782; Daniel, born Sept. 11, 1783; Elizabeth, born Sept. 4, 1784; Aaron, born Oct. 18, 1785; Sarah, born July 25, 1787. All baptized at Morristown. After this date, he emigrated with his family with the many who went West, and all further traces of his family are lost. Of Peter's brother Nathaniel, we have no records. He probably preceeded Peter to the West; perhaps married and died there.

The Obadiah Lum house was situated about 300 yards directly south of the present residence of J. P. The Perrine Family.

The Perrine, (Perrin, Perrine, Perine, Perryn), families of New York, New Jersey and Virginia are the descendants of Daniel Perine, a French Huguenot, who sailed from the Isle of Jersey in ship Philip, July 29, 1665. in the train of Sir George Carteret.

Count Perrin, a refugee from France, is supposed to have been the head of the Perine family of which Daniel Perine, of Staten Island, is supposed to be a member. However, it is impossible to obtain consecutive records of the Huguenot families, owing to the general destruction of the Protestant churches, the houses and the private papers of these heroic religionists.

In anticipation of the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, which professed to allow the French Protestants free exercise of religious worship, and full ownership of their estates, thousands of the best families of the kingdom of Louis XIV began a gradual exodus from their beloved country about the year 1680, avoiding the reign of dire persecution where marriages were declared void, property forfeited to the crown, children imprisoned in convents and preachers murdered.

England, Holland, Brandenburg, Switzerland and some of the Channel Islands had long given protection to the pious victims of confiscation and banishment, glad to extend welcome and adoption to soldiers and scholars, craftsmen and artificers expelled by an unwise nation.

Since the massacre of St. Bartholomew 1572, colonists of the Reformation had dwelt in peace and seclusion in these alien lands. To these distressed brethren another decree of destruction and death, like the knell of Saint Germain d'Amperriors, dinned its appalling peals through the century long night of anxious miserableness and the panic of flight for life began.

The West Indies and the American colonies had also given refuge to hopeless men, women and children of French nationality, many of their descendants having settled in Morris county. Previous to the advent of Daniel Perine, of Staten Island, John Perryn, aged 21, from London, Aug. 10, 1635, who appears to have been a kinsman of Daniel, had resided at Baintree, Mass.

The first marriage license issued in the Elizabethtown plantation of New Jersey, Feb. 18, 1666, was for Daniel Perine, of Staten Island, and Maria Thorel, a French Huguenot, was signed by Philip Carteret, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. James Bollen. Daniel was born 1630, died 1700.

The Stickle Family.

That it may be convincing proof to some who have followed my genealogical sketches of the old families, that they are not written at random at an idle hour, but that many of them have taken months to complete as they are now. To those who have had an experience in hunting up their own ancestry I need not add anything to these facts.

We go abroad, frequently, to get the news from home, and in this way I have given skeleton lists, where it has been possible to get desired information, these have passed through many experts for additions and corrections, before given to the public.

My points of research have been to get copies from the original records that have been taken to the pioneer homes of the West, East, North and South. These people have been interested, they have been glad to give and receive any information regarding the old families, and with the consent of Mr. Samuel Stickle, of Santa Barbara, Cal., I will give one of these letters as written at random, a few data may be given in parenthesis to complete. Mr. Stickle left Rockaway nearly fifty years ago, but he still knows something of its history and its people and will be appreciated for many valuable historical incidents.

"In answer to your inquiry as to what I could give you in relation to the early history of the Stickle family, I will state such traditions as were told me in my younger days by older members of our family.

"It was commonly understood that about the year 1700, that a youth by the name of Stickle took passage on a vessel just ready to sail from the port of Amsterdam in Holland for New Amsterdam, America.

"Some stories had it that he paid a part of his passage money, another that he was a stowaway and another, and the one considered nearest the truth, was that he was kidnapped and brought on board the vessel and carried to New Amsterdam and sold for the price of his passage. All agree, however, that he was sold for the price of his passage, as was the rule in those times, in regard to all persons indebted to the ship for carrying and not paying their ocean fares.

"What his given name was I never heard mentioned. There was some question raised as to the name of Stickle as it is now written. Some claimed that the name was spelled Steikel, others thought Steckel, and others were of the opinion that Steigel was the proper name in the Dutch vernacular.

"I never gave this point much thought. In traveling in Minnesota in the year 1867, I met a gentleman who was direct from Amsterdam who registered at the hotel where I was at the time, and wrote the name Stickle just as we do. He was a man of intelligence and means and stated to me that his name had been spelled that way for many generations in his family, and that they were an old and numerous family in Holland at that date, 1867 I conclude from this circumstance that the name is Stickle, and has been for two hundred years at least.

"I have before me a fragment of an old family record, which starts off just as I copy it, as follows:

" 'February 22, A. D. 1763, was Peter Stickle married to Elizabeth Parliaman. Elizabeth Parliaman was born October 4, 1743. Aug. 3, A. D 1763, was born their first son, George; May 10, was born their second son, Peter, 1765; March the 16, 1767, was born Edward, their third son; May 30, 1769, was born James, their fourth son; March 21, 1771, was born Jacob, their fifth son; November the 9th, 1772, was born Ann, their first daughter; October 11th, 1776, was born Elizabeth, their second daughter; March 21, 1779, was born John, their sixth and last son.' "

" 'Then follows the record of George Stickle's family: George and Sarah (Beaman) Stickle married the 2nd day of March 1783. Sarah Stickle, wife of George Stickle, was born the 13th day of Juyl 1765. Their first son, Hubbard S. Stickle, was born 4th of Sept. 1783; their second son, George Stickle, was born 11th of March 1786; their third son, David Stickle, was born March 28, 1788; Peter Stickle, their fourth son, was born May the 16th, 1790; Parliaman Stickle, their fifth son, was born the 6th day of May, 1792; April 10, 1794, was Beaman Stickle, their sixth son, born; March 12th, 1796, was Maria Stickle, their first daughter, born; Nov. 21st, 1798, was born their seventh and eighth sons, Washington 1st and Adams 2nd; 1802, Feb. 2, was born their ninth son, named Mahlon. At this point the record ends. There were two children born later: Chileon, (born Mar. 14, 1804,), and Sarah, (born July 5, 1807.)'

" 'It was always understood that the Peter Stickle here first mentioned was one of three brothers, and that this Peter Stickle settled in New Jersey, and that one brother settled in Eastern Pennsylvania and one in Central New York. This is undoubtedly true, as I have met personally and corresponded with others of the Stickle family from both Central New York and Eastern Pennsylvania, and all agree uniformly that they are one of the branches of three brothers.'

"Peter Stickle, the first mentioned, probably lived and died at what was once known as the Terhune place in the Rockaway Valley. The farm lying across the valley jutting on what used to be known as the Torn mountain on the south east and against the hills across the valley on the north east. He and his wife are buried on this farm. Fifty years ago their graves were well kept, but had no monument. I do not know who owns the property at this time. (Peter F. Cook). When I last visited this burying place the property was owned by Robert Lash who married a daughter of George Stickle, (Sarah).

"In relation to the Stickle family at the present, I am certain they are pretty well scattered over the world. Three of George Stickle's brothers migrated to Vermont early in the last century. They were Peter, Edward and and Jacob. I have met several of these, or this branch of the family. Some in Wisconsin, some in Minnesota, some in Illinois, and also in Iowa and Missouri.

"There was another member of the family named Nathaniel Stickle, that I have always supposed was a brother of my grandfather, George Stickle. He was an expert mill wright. He built the first grist mill at Horse Pound, (near Hibernia). He migrated to the lake countries, or started to go there, and was lost sight of by all those living in Jersey.

"When I came to this state, (California), in 1888, I had a letter dropped in my P. O. Box, which I opened, supposing it was for me, but in reading, I found it was for another Stickle. I dropped it back in the post office with explanations, when a short time this gentleman called to see me and compare notes.

"He was a native of Rockland county, N. Y., and was not aware of the fact that there were any other Stickles in existence, and from their own family. Now this Nathaniel Stickle when he migrated was a bachelor. He probably carried his kit of tools along, and in the counties of Rockland and Dutchess, N. Y., he saw nice running streams and good water power, and so he probably stopped, and began to follow his calling, and being an expert, he prospered and grew up with the country.

"There is quite a family of them in those counties all claiming to be the descendants of the expert mill wright, who married, and ended his days in that region, only leaving the small scrap of history that he came from New Jersey.

"In my travels I have seen members of our family in pretty much all classes and conditions. I suppose every northern state had one or more members of this family in the Union army during the Rebellion, and have no doubt whatever about their being represented in the Confederate armies, although I never chanced to meet one.

"In civil life I have seen them occupying the judge's bench, the lawyer's place at the bar, the ministry and physician's calling, in the halls of Legislature, and not to be exclusive, I have seen them in the felon's cell. I find some engaged in mining, some in lumber, while trading seems natural to all the various clans.

"Of two of the brothers of my grandfather, James and John, I have no record of any kind. It may be, however, that one of them was the brother Nathaniel, the latter being a middle name, or an adopted name. I also have an indistinct recollection of one dying young.

"The daughters, Ann and Elizabeth, were both married. Ann married a man named (Daniel) Lewis and migrated farther West. In the fifties this woman made herself known to my brother, (Charles Beaman), then living in Menasha, Wisconsin. She died near there about the year 1860. I have met several members of her family in Wisconsin and Minnesota. Of the other daughter, Elizabeth, I have no record. (She married Calvin Ross, of Rockaway, Nov. 7, 1795).

"I do not vouch for the statements I have given as actual facts, I hope it may be the means of drawing out some history from others that may have had better opportunities than I have had.

"My grandfather, George Stickle, kept a daily record of events running through about forty years. Had that been cared for, many facts and events happening in his time, would now have a record of no small value, that is lost to the community beyond recovery.

"Hoping that what I have written may at least fill out one missing link, I remain yours in F. C. & L., SAMUEL STICKLE".

Before gatherin up the fragmentary dates of the Stickle family, it is due to Comrade Stickle as a soldier, to mention that he has seen service with the boys of Company G, 11th Wisconsin Infantry Regiment, from Sept. 4, 1861, to Jan. 6, 1865, and it is possible that he picked up a few "hard tacks" of information in this line of service, that would interest the comrades.

"Hut little is known of the birth of Peter Stickle, some traditions say that he was a few years older than his wife Elizabeth, which would give 1740 not far from the record. The date of death of Peter and his wife are not found on the records. As both were members of the Rockaway Presbyterian church and on the books in 1794, we would place the date of death after that date, notwithstanding traditions to the contrary.

It is said that he and his neighbor Terhune dug a well on the dividing line between them and both families used from the well, which is still in use upon the lands of Peter F. Cook. It is also related that during his last sickness, he was unable to use the English language, which he had learned, but conversed entirely in German, which some of the family did not understand, and they were compelled to get a German interpreter, who remained with him until his death. He was buried on the farm, through which cemetery the canal passed and many of the dead were exhumed and reburied.

The story of the life of George Stickle, Peter's son, in detail is full of romance. Bound out, as was the custom, to learn the tailor's trade at Franklin, ran away because of ill treatment, wandered away and found one of his father's friends, who gave him an education, returned, taught school at Denville, and later at Rockaway. While at Rockaway he made his daily record of cutting and ranking a cord of wood on the White Meadow tract before school; taught ten hours of school and cut another cord of wood, returned to his home and attended to the chores.

In this way he earned his first $600, which he was obliged to take in notes of Israel Canfield, the owner of the White Meadow tract, who lived at Morris Plains. He finally made the notes as his first payment of the whole tract at $12,000, with forge, and ore and charcoal in stock, but could not sell a pound of iron only to Israel Canfield. The price of iron went up, he learned the bloomer's trade, and by hard work and good management, soon had the tract paid for much to the surprise of Canfield. He sold, bought and traded, and soon amassed a fortune in those days of $120,000. He married Sarah Beaman Mar. 2, 1783, a daughter of David and Mary, (Stansborrough), Beaman, of Rockaway, whom tradition relates as a very good and pious woman, but without much business faculty.

George Stickle, it is related, taught night school and surveying in his earlier days, and from his writing in the old church records, was a first-class penman. He died Aug. 11, 1835. His wife was born July 13, 1765, died June 14, 1836. Both buried at Rockaway.

Children of George and Sarah (Beaman) Stickle, dates of birth already given from the record: Hubbard Stansborrough, probably named from his mother's father, married (1) Sarah, daughter of Francis and Charity (Miller) McCarty, Oct. 17, 1807; married (2) Gean McGrath, widow of Isaiah W. He died at an advanced age June 18, 1881. His first wife was born Aug. 24, 1784, died Apr. 12, 1854. His second wife died Jan. 7, 1863. All buried at Rockaway. His widow received a land warrant for his services in 1812 War. Parliaman, no records further than date of birth. The Smith Family.

The progenitor of the Smith family at Franklin and Union N. J., is said to have come from Vermont, another version is that he came from Long Island and was known as "Bold Smith." The Vermont version has a bit of romance that may be a matter of history. His name was William and he had been engaged to a girl in Vermont, and the day was set, and the hour appointed on which they were at once to proceed to the dominie's as was the common custom, on horse back, both riding the same horse. As there had been nothing said as to which would take the front seat, as, if two ride on one horse one must necessarily take a back seat. Tradition does not relate as to the real causes, but the effect was they did not get married.

Being somewhat disappointed in this love affair, he proceeded at once on a long and lonesome journey throught the then wilderness. This must have been as early as 1750, and it is not related that he stopped until he reached the wilds of Shongom, where he met a Dutch girl, who was willing to take a back seat, and they proceeded at once to the Dominie's where the two were made one. Her name was Christiana Derling.

William Smith purchased lands, built a log house and set up housekeeping, and is said to have had nineteen children. The old homestead is located where his son Gerrett lived, afterward his grandson John, now as the residence of Cornelius L. Smith. William and his sons owned at one time nearly all the lands between Shongom and Franklin, then called Pigeon Hill. It was not out of the order of the day, at that time, for an ordinary hunter and trapper to keep the table well supplied with bear, deer and turkey, and in the season, many of the broad acres of the Smith farm were literary covered with pigeons, hence the name Pigeon Hill, it was a paradise to the early settlers.

While at work many years after on the Shongom Pond, in getting out timber and crossing the lake on the ice, he was accidentally killed, and probably buried at Rockaway, as tradition has it that his wife was buried at Rockaway a few years after, which would naturally be by the side of her husband. As there is no monument or other records the precise date is unknown.
